Cardrooms Still Forbidden

Pacifica Council Won't Act Without Initiative

By WILL E. THOMAS

The Pacifica City Council defeated a bid to study card clubs as a possible revenue producer on two full houses Monday.

Over 250 persons, most of them opposing any change in the city ordinance that prohibits card clubs or cardrooms, filled the Terra Nova High School cafetorium.

The council rejected an attempt by Mayor Nick Gust, primarily, to have formed a fact-finding committee. The vote was 3 to 2, as Daniel Modena cast his ballot with Gust on a motion by gambling foe Councilwoman Grace McCarthy that the existing ordinance be upheld and that no further action be taken until there is an initiative drive.

Over a dozen residents spoke out against gambling in the coastal community discussion period. Mayor Gust, in a 12-minute statement attacked Bill Drake, publisher of the Pacifica Tribune, for allegedly "fanning the flames against card games."

Gust explained that the card club issue got its roots over a year ago when he was approached by Sam Novi, who told the mayor that two southern California "promoters" — who were never identified publicly — had inquired about the city's cardroom laws.

Gust has maintained that revenue from legal card club operations similar to those in Gardena could help solve the city's financial problems and hopefully reduce taxes.

He pushed for a community fact-finding group. Although the decision of such a committee would not be binding legally upon the city council, Gust and Modena said they would abide by whatever the committee decided.

Gust said he wanted the committee to determine whether or not the issue should go to a vote of the whole comunity.

District Attorney Keith Sorenson, among the card club foes to speak, said the trend among cities and unincorporated areas in San Mateo County was away from cardrooms or clubs.

Sorenson said he saw no real difference in the type of games or types of persons who would patronize card clubs and cardrooms.

He pointed primarily to figures that indicated increased crime — particularly assaults and robberies — tended to be linked to the establishments.

Sorenson said he did not believe the civic leaders in South San Francisco or San Bruno, where some types of cardrooms are legal, would encourage Pacifica to expand its ordinance to allow card clubs.

Nathaniel Marks was the only citizen expressing an interest in establishment of a fact-finding body.

He said that the contention that gambling is evil is an unsupported contention. He said that the community was being "snowed under by hysteria."

H. D. Tisdale said he'd rather pay more taxes to keep out the cardooms. He asked if Gust knew how many card clubs it would take to lower taxes.

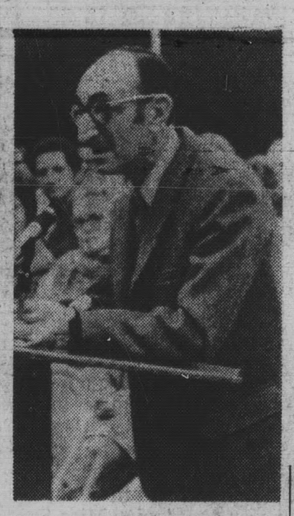
Jim Trainer said the card club discussions might be diverting the council's attention from other sources of revenue.

Jack O'Sullivan said he thought there was the risk of susceptibility of municipal government to the mainipulations of gambling house owners.

O'Sullivan suggested that if the city were contemplating card clubs, it ought to consider going into the business itself — own, operate and manage, which he said would "preclude all hanky-panky."

"You do not have a right to get involved in something that drags down moral standings instead of building them up," said Roland W. Fields.

Marje Mays, a newcomer, said she was "afraid of the bigtime gambler," and another woman feared the exposure of youth to card clubs.



DEEP THOUGHT—Councilwoman Grace McCarthy (left), an arch foe of card clubs, and Mayor Nick Gust, who sought to gain formation of a fact-finding committee, and other councilmen appear in deep, attentive thought as pros, cons of issue are brought out by citizens. 'Censorship' Is Charged by AFT Leader in S.S.F.

By Bob Peterson

A district attorney decision in favor of the South San Francisco Unified School District brought cries of censorship Monday night from American Federation of Teacher President James Lynch.

The decision had to do with whether teachers had the right to disseminate literature and give their viewpoints to parents at an open house.

Lynch said, "The school board struck another blow for censorship by refusing to allow teachers to hand out literature to parents entering schools on occassions like back to school nights. The public will suffer by not being able to obtain teacher criticism of the schools."

Superintendent Paul Nielsen said the district has the authority to regulate and control information to parents, "and the district attorney upheld this position."

According to Lynch, the public would stand to gain by havimng a new channel of communication, "if the board allowed the teachers to hand their views to the parents without demanding the right to censor what the teachers wrote."

Nielsen suggested that if every teacher had this type of unlimited freedom there would be serious doubt as to any sound administrative operation.

The conflict arose out of a situation last October at Southwood Junior High School in which literature was being handed to parents, and various independent views reportedly were expressed.

Nielsen said he wrote a letter to Lynch informing him not to continue the practice. The district attorney's decision, according to Nielsen, was that a teacher cannot make use of a captive audience to project his own personal feelings.

Lynch said the opinion "evades the issue" because it assumes that teachers are going to distribute literature during the school sponsored function.

"The board does not have to act as big brother for the people of South San Francisco as they file through the schoolhouse gate," said Lynch.

"The people can read what the teachers say, or throw it away. But they have the right to make up their own mind."

S. Bruno Trustees Alter Meeting Day

The San Bruno Park School District Board of Trustees Monday night changed their meeting date. It was a unanimous vote.

The board moved the regular session to the third Monday of the month, from the second Monday.

The next regularly scheduled session will be held April 19. The first Monday of the month is reserved for special meetings as needed. These meetings generally were scheduled for the fourth Monday.

Reason given for the change was that the meetings had conflicted with city council meeting nights. Supposedly, requests to change the meeting date had been submitted regularly by citizens desiring to attend meetings of both groups.

Another factor reportedly affecting the decision is that Board Chairman Margaret Kozkowski was recently elected to the city council.

She has stated that she intends to remain on the school board at least until the board has hired a new superintendent to replace retiring George Lawry.

The nearly 60 applications for Lawry's post are now being reviewed by a screening committee. The committee is expected to come up with a half-dozen top applicants to be submitted to the board.

These names were originally scheduled to be presented to the board by March 26, making a possible decision by the April 19 meeting.

In other business the board accepted a proposed expenditure budget of $5.6 million for the 1971-72 year. The expenditure budget for 1970-71 was $5.4 million.

Boys Arrested in School Fire

Police Monday arrested two small boys in connection with Sunday's burglary-fire at the Colma Intermediate School in Daly City.

The boys, ages 8 and 9 years old, were charged with setting the $8,000 fire which destroyed one classroom and contents at the building in the Hillside Boulevard-Market Street area.

Tanforan Center Opening Tomorrow in San Bruno

(Related Articles, Pages 21-24)

Thirty merchants will be ready for business when the 48-acre, $28-million Hapsmith development opens Thursday on the site of the historic old Tanforan race track in San Bruno.

Preview opening ceremonies will be at the El Camino Real entrance, with Jack Carney, area radio personality, the master of ceremonies.

One of the anchor stores of the Tanforan Park Shopping Center, Sears, opened last October, marking the first commercial activity at the old racetrack site since the clubhouse and grandstands were destroyed by fire in 1964.

Other major tenants include JC Penney, a 250,704 square foot store to open in early November, and The Emporium, on which construction has yet to begin.

Bruno Recall Order Denied by Judge

Presiding Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn Monday refused to issue a restraining order against the investiture of two new members of the San Bruno City Council.

The order was sought in a petition filed yesterday by two citizens, John A. Cadigan and Frank J. Pisco Jr., who charged that the recall election in which Margaret Koskowski and Anthony Governale wee elected last Tuesday was unconstitutional and that their swearing-in tonight would be an illegal expenditure of public funds.

Mrs. Koskowski and Governale were elected to take the places of Councilmen Richard Griffith and Theodore H. Long, who were recalled for their role in the hiring of City Manager Christopher Menkin.

The petition tried to make the point that Griffith and Long were denied their constitutional right to equal protection of the law because they needed a majority of votes to keep their council seats, while te challengers needed only a plurality of votes cast to unseat them.

Judge Cohn, in denying the petition for a restraining order, said the petition "patently does not state a cause of action."

"It was lacking in any facts," he explained today.

Judge Cohn said that a proper way to challenge the election of Mrs. Koskowski and Governale would be to ask the state attorney general to do it on behalf of the citizenry.

D.C. Streets to Retain Their Names

Portions of Higate Drive and Castillejo Avenue in Daly City will retain their names.

The City Council had decided several weeks ago that a name change for the two streets were necessary following completion of the Cabrillo Freeway which chopped through the neighborhood.

But residents armed with petitions turned out in numbers two weeks ago to protest the name changes. They argued that not only would friends get lost trying to find their way to homes, but letterheads, credit cards and drivers' licenses would have to be changed.

And for what purpose, they asked the council?

The council Monday agreed.

City manager David Rowe asked the council to forget he even mentioned the subject of name changes.

Long, Griffith Recalled—But Controversy on Last Actions

San Bruno's council meeting Monday flared up at several points, ignited by last-time voting of recalled Councilmen Dick Griffith and Ted Long.

With Mayor Neil Christal, who survived the recall effort, supplying the third vote, the majority adopted two significant and controversial items.

They authorized a claim submitted by City Mgr. Christopher Menkin for $950 for legal services rendered Menkin by Atty. Ronald Carter in the suit filed by Planning Commissioner Victor Ogrey shortly after Menkin was first appointed.

The 3-2 vote also set up a March 24 public hearing on pros and cons to consider the possibility of rescinding the agreement the city has with the State Highway Department for construction of Interstate 380 through Crestmoor Canyon to Pacifica.

In the claim request, Menkin said the city is responsible for retaining counsel for its employes "in action brought against the employe in the faithful performance of his duty." He hired Carter of his own volition.

Councilman George Corey said the approval was an outright "gift of public funds." He said he intends to do one of two things. He will either let the payment be made, then sue to return it. Or he will make the stopping of the check one of the first orders of business when the new council meets Wednesday.

As a matter of routine, for the purpose of canvassing votes and installing the new council members, there will be a meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m.

At this time, Corey said he would ask for another meeting Wednesday night. He said he would bring up several matters, including a personnel session concerning Menkin's employment.

Other matters include the possigility of naming a new mayor and reinstituting the pre-council caucus meetings.

As to the claim, City Atty. Joe Galligan said, "It is not a legitimate claim against the city." Galligan pointed out that the council had authorized the firm of Ropers and Majeski to represent everyone named in the suit. He noted Menkin took it upon himself ti hire Carter. The city, incidentally, paid Ropers and Majeski $1,350.

Council Maurice Hamilton said he also challenged Christal's vote in the matter on the basis of conflict of interest. Hamilton said Christal and Carter are law associates. "He is not my partner. The vote has nothing to do with our association," said Christal.

Responding to Hamilton, Menkin said, "If you want to deny it, deny it. Otherwise let's not play games about it."

The issue of the freeway hearing resulted from a request of J. William Muth, president of the Peninsula Regional group of the Sierra Club.

Muth submitted a communication that stated the proposed freeway will pass through three different school properties, one not yet built.

He said the area already is overburdened with freeways and another would "irreparably damage some of the most valuable, unspoiled open space."

In opposing the motion, Corey said there are economical as well as ecological factors to be considered. He noted the decision to build was made several years ago.

"The only thing 380 is going to offer is another Los Angeles on the coast," said Long. "It's necessary for a few developers who need a quick way to be able to sell $20,000 homes. Let's have a hearing. Let's find out if it's a good thing."

16-Mile-House to Live

The 16-Mile-House lives again in Millbrae. Scott Howatt, former owner of the perhaps-100-year-old ex-roadhouse on El Camino Real, Monday won approval of Millbrae's Planning Commission for applying the old name to a new tavern.

The New 16-Mile-House will be built at 448 Broadway, which has been unsuccessful as part of a chain of "Cable Car Burgers."

Howatt told Planners Monday that he would install the old bar from the original 16-Mile-House in the new tavern, decorate it with old fashioned lights, and otherwise try to recapture the atmosphere of the wooden building which has been torn down to make room for a paint store.

There will be no live music, Howatt said, but one of the old nickelodeons and hours will be limited to 10 or 11 a.m. to 11 or 12 p.m.

The Commission opened a public hearing on the city's plan to rezone six acres, west of Vallejo Drive, from unclassified, to duplex use.

Doug Pringle, owner of a third of the six acres, protested.

"You will be condemning the property," he said.

"The area is surrounded by a solid wall of three story apartment buildings, or will be. The freeway immediately behind it is four stories tall, a duplex in the middle would be like living in a hole."

He said none of the planners would live in such a location, without a view and with all the neighbors able to look down on their single-level homes from second and third-floor apartments.

Commission Chairman Eugene Morasoli said he agreed with Pringle's viewpoint, but Commissioners Robert Treseler and Joseph Galante backed the city position.

Treseler said he would rather not zone the property to any use, because that would increase the allowable density of population above that which is now permitted.

Galante said Pringle's arguments failed to convince him, as duplexes already exist on the same block, to the north.

Veteran JUHSD Trustee

Jim Cooper's Funeral Today

James M. Cooper, a 12-year veteran member of the Jefferson Union High School Board of Trustees, died yesterday after a lengthy illness.

Funeral services will be at 8 p.m. today at the Nauman and Lincoln Chapel by the Sea mortuary in Pacifica. Interment will be at Corvallis, Oregon.

Cooper, 57, became ill over a year ago, but had attended several meetings of the north county school board after his initial hospitalization.

He was returned to the hospital last Saturday after complaining of dizziness, according to friends who had planned a small drop-in gathering at his home at 1496 Adobe Road, Pacifica, Sunday.

Cooper had left the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, for which he was chief of the Transportation Division, for health reasons last June.

Cooper, in addition to being a member of the Jefferson High board since 1959, also was the Pacifica Park, Beach and Recreation Commission's first chairman.

He received a national recreation award for his efforts in that capacity in 1967.

JAMES M. COOPER

Cooper was president of the JUHSD board twice; vice president four times and was a member of the California School Boards Association Delegate Assembly, representing Marin, San Mateo and San Francisco counties.

He was a past president of the Westmoor High and Pacific Manor Elementary P-TA's, an active deacon of the First Baptist Church of Pacifica and an active participant in the incorporation of the City of Pacifica.

Cooper saw the Jefferson district grow from an enrollment of 2,000 students to 8,000, and the construction of two new high schools in Pacifica and three in Daly City.

Cooper, whose third term of office was to expire this year, was not seeking re-election because of his health.

A native of Oregon, he was a California resident for 27 years.

Survivors include his wife, Lydia; a daughter Elizabeth and a son James.

2nd Prayer Vigil

A second prayer vigil and mass at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City has been set for March 14, at 2 p.m., by the Hermanos Latinos and 25 other minority organizations.

The mass, according to spokesmen, will be celebrated in honor of St. Luisa de Marillac and St. Vincent de Paul who were the founders of the Daughters of Charity.

Pope Paul XXIII declared St. Luisa the patron for social workers.

The groups want the Daughters of Charity to "cooperate with us in order to open a free East Daly City clinic that meets the needs of the people of this community," said the spokesman for the movement.

The first prayer vigil was designed to draw attention to the Latino request.

Leaders of the clinic campaign have indicated there is "now hope for the reality of immediate formation of Our Lady of Guadalupe Clinic."

A coalition meeting will be held at St. Andrews church Friday with Daughters of Charity representatives.

Master Pact 'Round Table' by Teachers

A "round-table" discussion on master teacher agreements will be held by the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association in Daly City this weekend.

Mrs. Joan Hemphill, the unit's public relations representative, disclosed that over 200 Bay Section CTA teachers associations will participate.

The purpose of the meeting is to outline master agreements, such as that gained in negotiations and after a brief strike by the Daly City teachers last year.

A similar agreement also was won by high school CTA and AFT teachers.

Four such master agreements, negotiated between boards of trustees and teachers are in effect in the CTA's Bay Section, Mrs. Hemphill said.

Fistfights at Palace Bout Show

A scattering of fistfights, minor injuries, and a fatal heart attack punctuated the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier closed-circuit fight showing at the Cow Palace Monday.

Leroy Collins, 53, of 74 Waterville Street, San Francisco, collapsed and died from an apparent heart attack during the first round of the championship fight.

While attendants from the Daly City-based Mercy Ambulance Company entered through a side gate to remove the victim, several dozen frustrated ticket seekers used the emergency vehicle as a "wedge" to force their way into the Cow Palace area.

Units of Daly City police pushed them back outside. There were no reported arrests or injuries in the minor scuffle.

A Cow Palace employee lost the tip of his right fifth finger when the ambulance door slammed shut on [illegible] helping the ambulance crew. He was treated and released at Mary's Help Hospital.

Several Windows on the side of the Cow Palace arena were broken as others unable to buy tickets, attempted to break into the building. Police successfully blocked this attempt.

Teachers Plan Forum in D.C.

She said Candidate Harry Smith and incumbent Ed Tomasello probably would be unable to participate.

Mateo Courts in Good Shape

The Superior Court calendar in San Mateo County is in better shape today than it has been for 10 or 15 years, Presiding Judge Melvin E. Cohn said Tuesday.

Civil jury cases that formerly took three years and more to get to trial are now being scheduled in 11 months, he said. Non-jury civil cases are being heard as fast as rules allow, Judge Cohn added, with no time lag at all, and criminal trials are being tried within 60 days, as required, with relative ease.

"We keep hearing about how the courts have broken down," the jurist said, "about how the calendars are hopelessly clogged. Well, justice hasn't broken down in San Mateo County."

San Mateo County, Judge Cohn said, is one of only three counties in the state that has been able to reverse the trend toward longer waiting periods for trials. He identified the others as Santa Clara and Sacramento counties.

The lag is reckoned from the date that attorneys indicate they are ready to have trials scheduled by filing "motions to set." Civil jury trials are being scheduled for June on motions that were filed last July, according to Judge Cohn.

"This is about as fast as some attorneys like to go," the judge said. "As a matter of fact, we have had a few complaints that we are going too fast."

Judge Cohn said the speed-up in calendaring has been accomplished despite a 28 per cent increase in filings in four years. He noted that criminal filings alone have increased 122 per cent since 1966. New judges have been added during the same period to make a present total of 13.

Bruno to Airport Subway Is Favored

A direct service elevated track into San Francisco Airport from San Bruno has been ruled out by transit consultants in favor of a subway system costing some $286.4 million.

Also ranking high was a feeder shuttle between the proposed main Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) station in San Bruno and the sixth floor level of the new airport "hub" structure. This system would cost an estimated $60 million less than the favored subway system, the consultants explained

Least costly of the four proposals submitted in a bulky report to the San Francisco Airport Access Project board of control this morning was the direct BART link into the airport. Estimates revealed this aerial system would run about $222.9 million.

Estimates included $14 million for rail cars and maintenance yards, but excluded inflationary estimates, interest and financing charges.

An earlier report indicated the cost of the system between Daly City and San Bruno was $89.9 million. The difference in price involves a three-mile stretch of track.

But such features as an internal passenger distribution system within the airport building ($54.8 million) are said a must. Without this "people mover" passengers would be stranded inside the airport station.

Another important projection came out of the latest SFAAP report: a non-stop single purpose direct link between downtown San Francisco and the airport would be doomed to "failure." Findings indicated:

Without intermediate stops along the Peninsula an estimated 15 per cent of business people using the airport would ride the transit system.

This is not enough volume to support the costs; experts predict.

The report indicated it may take anywhere from five to eight years to get the system into operation once it is approved by those districts involved

The hangup is that the airport facility is now under construction and the longer the transit project lags the more expensive it will get. As an example: if it were decided to build a subway station at the airport following completion of the present expansion program, the cost could run as high as $28 million to modify the structure. If a commitment is made now this cost would probably be only $4 million.

Most transit officials favor the subway system.

It would allow every BART train running down the Peninsula to make a stop inside the airport without restricting movement of other trains because of intricate "switching" needs.

The feeder system is less attractive because people would have to detrain in San Bruno, ride an escalator up one flight, and board the feeder shuttle into the airport.

A proposal to have all airline facilities — such as baggage checking and ticketing — at the San Bruno station makes this type system more palatable to officials studying the proposals.

BART Link Applauded by Officials

A subway link between San Bruno and the airport Friday drew strong support from officials studying extension of the Bay Area Rapid Transit system on the Peninsula.

Airport Commission president, W. E. McDonnell, said he wanted the best service for the airport.

"It seems to me that unless it's a subway it won't be the best service," McDonnell said.

The subway, while costing some $60 million more than the "feeder scheme" proposed ($233.3 million), would allow the smooth flow of trains through the airport. It would also provid for extension of the line toward San Jose at a later date.

With the feeder system, the only other proposal seriously considered at yesterday's San Francisco Airport Access Project Board of Control meeting, passengers would be required to change trains "somewhere west of the Bayshore freeway."

The Access Project Board is expected to decide on what system to use at a meeting scheduled for next week.

Location of right-of-way maintenance and storage yard is also under study along with the three proposals offered the board.

Each plan — aerial direct link, feeder and subway — also dictates the layout of the maintenance yard, it was explained by SFAAP official Bill Lathrop.

Lathrop said a maintenance yard in the West Bay is an absolute "must" that will save the system some $1 million a year in operating revenues.

Twenty plans for servicing the airport were studied by Lathrop's group and 17 rejected, he said.

On another point — baggage handling — airport director James Carr said, "The baggage problem (on rapid transit lines) has been over-emphasized."

Carr felt details concerning baggage handling for airline passengers could easily be worked out.

Classroom is Damaged

Daly City firemen report vandals broke into a Colma Intermediate School classroom, ransacked the teacher's desk and set fire to wooden lockers Sunday.

Damage was estimated at $3000 to contents and $5000 to the building, according to Battalion Chief Mel Hansen.

The fire was confined to the lockers and the interial rear wall of the room, although heat melted new plastic windows.

Fire Captain Jack Winters was admitted to Mary's Help Hospital after getting a piece of steel in his eye.

Vandals also caused what Hansen guessed would be thousands of dollars damage to the Alta Coffee Company plant at 455 Allen Street in the Bayshore region of Daly City yesterday.

Someone got on top of the building, plugged drains and turned on a fire hose hydrant.

Water leaked into the building through vents and around pipes, the battalion chief said.

Parking Garage Bill Is Proposed

A bill scheduled to come before the State Assembly Government Administration Committee March 24 may provide $5.2 million in federal money needed to build a parking garage in Daly City.

The bill, AB 463, is sponsored by Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan (D-SSF) and is designed to serve as enabling legislation to provide the money for a multi-level parking facility at the Bay Area Rapid Transit station on Knowles Avenue.

Last year the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) gave the parking garage request submitted by BART a top priority. ABAG forwarded the application on to the Federal Highway Administration.

The application never got beyond Sacramento.

Justification for the federal funding came under Section Two of a 1968 parking demonstration project act concerning

FEE DEDUCTION

California's Registrar of Vehicles John L. McLaughlin said motorists may deduct all but $11 from the 1970 fee paid on each of his passenger vehicles.

fringe parking in urban areas near mass transit systems.

However, before funds could be allocated that section of the Federal Highway Act was repealed.

In December, 1970, the federal government passed the "Fringe Corridor Parking Act" which makes funds for such parking facilities available on a continuing basis if the request meets all necessary criteria, a Washington spokesman for the Department of Transportation said.

Ryan agreed to push for state enabling legislation after talks in February with Daly City Mayor Bernard J. Lycett and highway officials, including Alan Hart, State Highways Division engineer whose jurisdiction covers the Bay Area.

The original application has been shelved while officials await the outcome of Ryan's bill, Hart said.

Since the BART station was proposed initially for Daly City,

CHAMBER OFFICE

The San Bruno Chamber of Commerce office is now located at 715 El Camino Real, Suite 205, in the Mills Park building.

Lycett has insisted on an "adequate" parking garage for the station.

The funds would provide for construction of a facility capable of parking some 1,500 cars while their owners rode BART trains to downtown San Francisco and the East Bay.

Without the garage, city officials fear commuters may park on city streets near the station, thereby adding to traffic congestion.

Ryan said his bill, "Federal Aid for Urban Systems Act," has the needed support to pass the Assembly.

4 Helped Off Pacifica Cliff

Pacifica firemen rescued four climbers who became stranded on a sheer cliff above the old Ocean Railroad bed at Shelter Cove Sunday.

Helped down from their perch were James MaHood, 33, Kellie McIntyre, 10, Girard Ramsey, 10, and Shawn Ramsey, 8, all of 274 Sterling, Pacifica.

Firemen said the four had gone about 350 feet from the top of the cliff. Firemen Gary Stofan was lowered from above. He first lowered each victim to the railroad bed, then the remaining 70 feet to the ocean beach.

None of the victims were hurt, according to Fire Capt. John Murphy.

Wage Freezes, Personnel Cuts Proposed for JESD

Jefferson Elementary School District Supt. Frank Greenwood recommended last week numer- and freezing of all salaries next year in the face of a mounting financial concer.

The Daly City superintendent explained that while he considered program curtailments distasteful, he considered them necessary to protect the district's financial integrity.

A total expenditure of $9,056,678 is anticipated, Greenwood said.

The school district's budget must be reduced by $554,547 if it is to live within its income of an estimated $8,502,131, Greenwood said, in making the recommendations that would make the balancing possible.

Greenwood said, in submitting his suggestions to trustees at a study session, at which no action was taken, that he believed the district could maintain every existing program at a level that would be effective.

He said the year is the "first time in my professional career, which spans 20 years, that I have had to recommend deletions rather than expansions of programs involving the operation of a school system, and I find little comfort in the fact that we are not unique."

South San Francisco Unified School District learned of its financial woes earlier this week.

Although Greenwood recommended that no teachers be axed, and urged that:

—The first six teachers resigning be replaced with the two music teachers and the four librarians who hold teaching credentials;

—The average classroom load be increased from the current level of 29 to 30;

—The ten resigning teachers not be replaced and that the children be assigned accordingly when new classes are organized.

He estimated a savings of $90,000 in this area.

He also urged reduction of the George Washington, Thomas Edison and Christopher Columbus librarian services from five days a week to 2½ days to maintain their multi-media libraries; that the remaining schools get one day of service a week.

The library section cuts would save $43,285, Greenwood said.

He recommended that the position of art resource teacher be terminated and the teacher returned to the classroom; that the music consultancy be terminated upon that person's retirement at the end of the current year; but that the two general consulants and the art consultant be continued. The estimated savings in those cuts: $32,601, the superintendent pointed out.

He recommended that there be no reductions in guidance-psychology staff, remedial reading, speech therapy, gardening [illegible] areas.

Greenwood suggested the reduction of the nursing staff from eight to four; that one nurse be retained at each of the intermediate schools.

In some instances programs at Woodrow Wilson Schools were not touched, because of federal funding.

The superintendent recommended paid noonyard supervisors be eliminated, to be replaced by teachers, except at schools where small staffs would make such noontime coverage impossible.

He said he wants to have principals work 11-months, utilizing them for the summer school program, which he urged be continued, and for planning and development work, in addition to their own curriculum tasks.

Greenwood said transportation and cafeteria programs should be continued.

He said a freeze of all district salaries, including those of the administrators, would amount to $288,000.

The recommended reductions and curtailmants total $393,284, he said.

"Should the board of trustees . . . adopt all proposals," Greenwood said, "the school district income would exceed the expenditure by $126,737."

He acknowledged, nonetheless, that the excess income of $126,737 still leaves the district $161,263 short of the $288,000 necessary to meet the annual salary increment of all schedules for all personnel.

The $726,737 could be put in the reserve or be used on a pro rata basis to provide at least a portion of the annual increments to all employees Or, he added, it could be held in abeyance until such time as actual expenditures and the net ending balance for the current year are known.

"As it now stands, $161,263, budget or come from the state or federal governments," Greenwood said.

He said the district could remain solvent if the board adopted his recommendations.

Trustees said they would consider the superintendent's recommendations on principals separately.

Manager on the Job in S.S.F.

Gale Dreisbach, South San Francisco's new city manager spent what could be considered an eventful first day at work March 1.

It was highlighted by a luncheon for the purpose of meeting and conferring with all department heads.

Then came the 4:30 council study session prior to the 8 p.m. meeting, which Dreisbach admitted was something never held at his previous place of employment.

Councilmen also officially set his salary at $20,000 annually, and reverted Assistant City Manager Larry Ross back to his regular pay scale of $16,500 annually. Ross had been receiving a pro-rated salary based on former city manager Tom McKenzie's $25,000 scale.

James Brenner Leaves Bridge After 32 Years

James K. Brenner, 1221 Crestwood Drive, South San Francisco, cashier-toll collector on the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge for 32 years, retired March 1.

He started work with the Division of Bay Toll Crossings in 1939 after employment as a clerk with the Southern Pacific railroad office in San Francisco.

During World War 2 he was a corporal with the Army in the South Pacific. He won four battle stars in various engagements.

Brenner is an active, hiking member of the Sierra Club; California State Employees' Association, Chapter 49; and a former member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Planning Council Spells Out Needs

An educational planning committee, appointed by Jefferson Elementary School District Supt. Frank Greenwood, has rated the major budgetary items by priority number.

The priority explanations outlined to trustees last week:

1—Those areas which have the least direct affect on children's education should be the first considered for financial reductions before looking into other areas.

2—Those areas which do not directly affect the education of children but, rather, are supportive to direct services to children.

3—Those areas now partially funded through special funds (including programs directly related to permissive override taxes) or could be self-supporting.

4—These areas could be partially reduced, provided that none of the services were completely eliminated in the district.

5—These areas could be reduced.

6—Reductions could be made only with the fullest recognition of the negative impact upon the education of children.

Only two items — regular and substitute classroom teachers — won a "six" rating.

Principals, vice principales, social studies and mathematics were ranked "five."

Receiving "four" ratings were health services, instructional services-materials, music, physical education, supervisors of instruction and libraries.

"Three" priorities included summer school, blind, mentally retarded, remedial reading, hard of hearing, educationally handicapped programs, psychologists, noon yard supervisors and outside consultants.

The "one" and "two" ratings were given liberally.

"Two's": School plant operation, workshops, superintendent, associate superintendent-business, general and educational administrative office salaries, school secretaries and library assistants, textbooks, audio visual and related materials.

"One's": The state testing program, travel expenses for consultants and principals, educational conferences, special material for consultants, community services, helping teachers, director of personnel, governing board expenses, superintendent's conference and travel expenses, office supplies, recruitment costs, district car expenses, legal expenses.

Rec Vehicle Show Coming

With nearly 50,000 campsites in California alone — from high in the Sierra to the deserts and shorelines — California has long ranked as number one in outdoor recreation.

Because of this, those interested in the pursuit of outdoor leisure purchased nearly 30,000 travel trailers in the past year.

The best example of this entire industry will be seen during the seventh annual Mobile Home and Recreation Vehicle Show slated March 17-21 at the Cow Palace.

Arthur's Continuous Service Policy

Free Alterations — and as many extra fittings as needed to insure perfection. This applies to any suit, topcoat, sport coat or wool slacks purchased from us — men's or boys'. At no charge for as long as you own the garment. And we'll keep your garments in good repair. Our expert tailors repair linings and pockets, replace buttons or zippers without charge — no matter when you purchased the garment. (Re-weaving excepted, of course.)

Should you gain or lose weight, we will re-alter any garment to fit as well as when you bought it. Just bring your garment into the store whenever it needs repair or re-altering. (State law requires that it be dry cleaned first, however.) All work will be expertly done by our own tailors right at our store, quickly and professionally.

And, continuing our policy of the PAST 20 YEARS, there will be absolutely no charge for any of these services. You see, at Arthur's we believe the quality of our reputation is as important as the quality of our products.

THE Listening POST by Lyle Arnold & Alex Florea

We all suffer some degree of hearing loss sooner or later as we age; often sooner these days because of noise pollution. As it becomes more severe, hearing loss gradually cuts us off from much of life: voices of loved ones, music, radio and TV programs.

From our long experience as otometrists, we know that too many people who should have an aid do not; and that over 40% of those who do, have the wrong one, not properly fitted to their special needs.

Among the five types of instruments (in-ear, behind ear, optic, bone-conduction and body) there are five basic circuits, each with 12 responses, and hundreds of different models. As expert consultants, our job is to find exactly the right one for each person's needs – or if necessary, have it custom-made.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

Two Terra Nova Advanced Journalism students attended an exclusive press conference at The Fairmont Hotel last Wednesday, and were among the 40 Bay Area high school students to interview motion picture star Rock Hudson.

Hudson was in San Francisco March 3 and 4 promoting his now MGM release, "Pretty Maids All in a Row," a black comedy satirizing high school life, which opens April 2 at The Coronet Theatre.

In his role as a high school guidance counselor and football coach, the 45 year old actor portrays a well liked teacher who is devious, charming, and a master psychologist and manipulator.

"He is more concerned about teaching his students about love than in teaching reading, writing, and arithmetic," remarked Hudson.

The picture (which is rated R) was filmed at University High School in Los Angelos.

Walter Von Hauffe, Promotion Director for MGM Productions, arranged the press conference as an experimental publicity project, which, if it proves successful, will lead to the formation of a Bay Area High School Motion Picture Council.

The tentative Council will be made up of students affiliated with high school publications, and will meet monthly to view special screenings of upcoming films, and will also provide the students with the opportunity to meet with many of the stars, producers, and directors of the films.

Pat Bresnahan, Tiger Tales News Editor, and Rockie Montenegro, Editor-in-Chief, attended the Raoc Hudson press conference.

The questions directed to Hudson were varied, and included everything from actors and politics ("Actors should have the right to say what they feel, but they don't have the right to influence the public") to Doris Day ("She has a great sense of humor and is a great put-on artist").

On the "romanticism" displayed by Erich Segal's "Love Story" as opposed to the current trend of realism in today's motion pictures, Hudson commented that, far from being romantic, it gave a very real and honest approach. "I couldn't imagine Charles Boyer calling Irene Dunn a bitch, then asking her to marry him."

"Pretty Maids" will be Hudson's 58th movie.

The Jeff Scene

By Sue McAllister
Jefferson High Student

The student government class is planning details for a spring festival, to be held March 22—26.

The group initially said that the first four days of the week will be on the basis of a spirit week, each class responsible one day: freshmen, Monday; sophomores, Tuesday; juniors, Wednesday; seniors, Thursday. Friday would be the day for all clubs and classes to provide an activity or refreshments.

The classes and clubs are conducting meetings to decide the type of activity they will conduct.

VOLUNTEER GIRLS from Jefferson are helping Brownie Troop 558 get their feet o the ground.

Carol Badran and Sue Casazza go each Tuesday to the Parkview Clubhouse to assist with the Brownie activities. Already, the troop has had a day at Marshbanks Park to do activities intended to make the individual girls more of a group. They had a day of creative art work, and they had the ceremony in which all of the girls officially became Brownies.

The girls control them on their own and all activities are up to them. They are planning trips and other worthwhile activities in the future.

TOMORROW at 7:30 in the Jefferson gym a donkey basketball game will be held. Teachers and students will man the donkeys and attempt to play a serious game of Basketball.

The profits will go to the football team for new equipment.

THIS WEEK, the W.A.S.C. Accreditation Committee will be at Jefferson, talking with the administration, teachers, students, and classified staff. The committee will record their findings and report them, suggesting changes and giving their opinions.

The last time Jeff was accredited was in 1966 and the school won the full time limit.

JEFFERSON has two co-ed football and baseball teams—The Bagle Bummers and Sinor's Sissies. The teams are competitive groups from the marching band and Al Sinor's chemistry classes.

The Sissies won the first competition, a football game, 14-0, and the Bummers have challenged them to a softball game.

Serramonte Site of Scout Exhibits, Demonstrations

The Boy Scouts proved they are one of the most ingenious, resourceful and creative groups of young people around.

Displays, exhibits, demonstrations and entertainment were provided at the Serramonte shopping center.

There was a graphic illustration of the damages of soil erosion, a display of soil run-off on four different land areas; bare soil, contour plowing, straw covered and grass seeded. One troop baked [illegible] very eyes over a small campfire, and if you enjoy some really good close-order there was a group of boys marching up and down the mall, stepping as smartly as any military drill tream.

There was a comprehensive display of arrow-heads, guns, knives, with an explanation of how to properly use them, and there was a demonstration of talent in the San Francisco Boy Scout Bagpipe Band, a co-ed Explorer post.

The Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops, and Explorer posts taking part in the center's salute to Scouting were:

Hite-Millar Nuptials

Honeymooning on the Carmel Peninsula before establishing a home in Daly City are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Thomas Millar (Cheryl Ann Hite) who were married Saturday afternoon at the Millbrae Community Methodist Church.

The Rev. Robert DeWolfe conducted the one o'clock ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald V. Hite and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Millar. Both families reside in South San Francisco.

A long white silk organza Empire gown was worn by the bride when she recited her vows. The costume featured pearl detail at the front and a nylon net and Chantilly lace veil which fell into a long train. For her wedding trip, Cheryl changed to a Navy pantsuit with matching accessories.

Judy DeBarros of South San Francisco was the maid of honor and Robin Millar of South San Francisco, sister of the bridegroom, and Linda Ellis of San Bruno served as bridesmaids. They all wore similarly styled long silk crepe Empire gowns; Judy's costume was lavender and Robin and Linda's outfits were pink.

Amy Suzanne Recchini of South San Francisco was the flower girl and her pink frock was a miniature version of the maids' gowns.

Best man for the benedict was Phil Rovlukevich of South San Francisco. Kirk Millar, brother of the bridegroom, shared usher duties with Greg Cardinale of South San Francisco. Carl "Skipper" Hite of Oxnard carried the rings.

The newlyweds are both graduates of South San Francisco High School. She is the sister of John Hite, who is now serving with the U.S. Army.

Grabbing the Gusto

A whole world of literary lore, ranking with Herman Melville and Edgar Rice Burroughs, is to be found in contemporary advertising.

As case in point, we discuss those who would have us purchase their beer and their booze. They have seized upon the masculine instinct — the roam-dream — and used it to sell their product. For me, it has worked. I like to drink and, frankly, I often buy a particular brand for the spurious yet attractive way the advertisers sell it ot me.

Take Schlitz, for example. You only go around once in life so you gotta grab for all the gusto you can. Aboard a gleaming 160-foot sloop on a clear blue day far out at sea is a young Everyman — a man we would be if we only could. He wears a knit cap and a full beard. A chiseled, manly face, steel blue eyes and one of those dark blue navy jackets to ward off the coldwarm winds of the North Pacific.

He smiles. Up the hoist in a dripping net come dozens and dozens of cold, pure, refreshing, icy, manly Schlitz. And we know that in moments all the crew will be drinking and singing and doing all the husky things they do out on the North Pacific.

We want to be like this young Ulysses, but with mortgages and jobs (and a real aversion to long months of hard work and no women) we know that kind of life cannot be for us. So we sublimate and take the next best thing — we drink their beer.

Canadian Club has for years tempted our sense of adventure with colorful ads on the backs of glossy magazines. They would tell a little story like:

"I never thought I would escape from the clutches of the love-crazed she-ape. But at the last possible moment, with a last gasp of life remaining in my powerful body, I managed to grab a grapevine and hurtle myself, feet first, from her cave. After outwitting scores of rogue elephants intent on my demise, I somehow swam six miles upcurrent through the Euphrates River, tiptoed past eleven hundred hostile natives and made my way here to the golf course.

After an adventure like that, bourbon and ginger ale sure hits the spot.

Lucky Lager has taken us to the desert in an old Chevy truck with a flat. Miller has us on the golf course and at the fishing hole. With Hamm's we're in the land of sky blue water. We ski with Busch and fight bulls with Colt 45. Pabst and Olympia take us back to the turn of the century.

Every time I think of my plantation in Roratonga, I remember my San Miguel Beer.

Since I speak of them lightly, you may think I'm putting them down. But I find each new ad the breweries and distillers come up with to be almost as refreshing as their product. They hire the best cameramen and buy the best theme music. They provide a moment of nostalgic color in sometimes bland programming. Much more appealing than shrieks of "Mommy, Mommy," the throbs of headache pain or a graphic breakdown of stomach acid wreaking its ruin.

A LITTLE BIT OF BLARNEY about Our Lady of Mercy's St. Patrick's Day "A Little Bit of Heaven" dance and midnight buffet in the parish hall this Friday, March 12. These young colleens from the Kennelly School of Dancing will start off the festivities by entertaining with Irish Step-Dancing at 9 p.m. There will be door prizes, surprises and dancing for all to the music of the Rich Landi Trio. WHS Students Trying to Get 'Open Areas'

Student members of the Westmoor Planning Council have named a subcommittee to probe the possibility of opening up more of Westmoor High School's acreage for student use.

Sophomore Mike Mouton, head of the sub-committee, sought to open the summit at the top of Westmoor's predominant hill at the north end of the campus behind the shop area.

This area, controlled completely by students, was declared "open" by Principal Clayton Kollmann after committee members established special sergeant-at-arms and a court to govern the summit.

One of the objects of this new project is to prove to the administration and community that, in fact, students are responsible enough to take on privileges.

Other projects being investigated by the Westmoor Planning Council is a student picnic area which would be located where the portable art rooms were previously located.

Rick Sanguinetti has drafted plans from which the park will be designed. He is now drafting an agreement to be signed by student representatives.

The agreement will have the students promising to provide for control of people and litter.

Another sub-committee is tentatively planning draft counseling for junior and senior boys. A poll was taken by the draft counseling subcommittee in which 255 boys voted on questions ranging from draft information to enlistment procedures.

P-TA Award to Robert Maldonado

El Camino High School P-TA recently presented an Honorary Service award to Robert Maldonado "for his continuous devotion to students over the past years as an instructor at El Camino."

Maldonado became an instructor at El Camino in 1863. During these years he has gained the reputation, among the students, of always being available to listen to them, and to encourage them any way he can. He is considered a good friend by both the past and present students at El Camino High.

He has served in many capacities outside regular classroom duties. From 1965 until 1969 he was advisor to the graduating classes and served many times s a chaperone for stage band trips to Reno for band competitions. In 1965 Mr. Maldonado became the director of student activities on campus and served in that capacity until 1969. His duties as director included being in charge of pompon girls, cheerleaders, and school rallies. He is always in evidence at school activities, club functions and sports events.

Other duties have included working with the Inter-Club Council, and the Foreign Exchange Club. Many after school hours have been spent by Mr. Maldonado in organizing drives, and raising funds for these clubs.

Ath the present time, Mr. Maldonado is working with the Spanish Club on EC campus. The members, under his supervision, are raising funds for a trip to Mexico during Easter week vacation.

Rodeway Inn Opening With Kirby Stone Four

Newest gathering spot for "high flying" Peninsula latenighters promises to be the new lounge (as yet unnamed) at Rodeway Inn, which is scheduled to open March 22 on South Airport Blvd. near San Francisco International Airport. The nine-story Rodeway Inn of America hostelry will feature live entertainment in the evenings from a stage above the bar, and in the spotlight for the first four weeks will be the Kirby Stone Four. Also on hand for the big opening will be "Miss America" — Mary Ann Rose. Plans are now shaping up for first line entertainment to be continued throughout the months to come . . . Frank and Fannie Torres have finally gotten back into the swing of things following a month's vacation and are eager to serve you one of their South American specialties. Drop into their beach restaurant in Montara (located just south of Devil's Slide on Coast Highway One) and you'll be treated royally. . . .

MEMORY LANE — Free silent movies for home-viewing will be given away at drawings every Tuesday and Wednesday night at Ken's Melody Inn of Los Altos, the wondrous pizza and Italian restaurant which houses the Mighty Wurlitzer Theater Organ. The 15-minute film includes old-time favorites such as Charlie Chaplin, Lillian Gish and Mary Pickford, plus scenes of the Dempsey-Tunney fight and Lindbergh's historic take-off. Two drawings each night for ten films which can be shown on 8 mm projectors.

Matterhorn's European Fare

Wilfried and Marion Blarer are two delightful Europeans who go out of their way to see that your visit to their Burlingame Matterhorn restaurant is one to be long remembered. Swiss dishes and Continental fare are a specialty and are prepared with careful attention to taste preference by chef Wilfried . . . Perky Kathy Dee provides her unique style of pianobar entertainment in the lounge of Bruno's, downtown San Mateo, on Friday and Saturday nights. Kathy, who keeps up to today's music scene by adding new tunes to her repertoire, is joined by those around the pianobar and in the dining room in sing-alongs of standard favorites and current hits . . . The Cantonese, Polynesian and East Indian Curry dishes served at The Lanai, the next best thing to a visit to the South Seas, are delightful. Have you tried some of their famous and "dangerous" tropical drinks? Franciscan's Downfall and Side Winder's Fang are among the enticing concoctions to be enjoyed here . . . Dining suggestion: Veal Scaloppine Pizziuolo (tender thin slices of veal sauteed with wine, mushrooms, green peppers, onions and herbs) served at The Shirt Tail in Palo Alto. Strolling entertainers serenade you during dinner, or you can linger at the pianobar for late-evening fun.

Second Level For Banquets

The entire second floor of A. Sabella's is devoted to banquets and special parties. Lucien Sabella's magnificent Fisherman's Wharf restaurant is in great demand for large gatherings, so it's wise to make reservations well in advance. Accommodations for groups up to 400 persons . . . Johnny Earl, a self-taught, natural musician and a "turned on" singer, presides at the pianobar in the lounge of Stuart Anderson's Black Angus Steak House. Johnny, an outstanding piano stylist, displays his uncanny talents and ad lib abilities Tuesday through Saturday at this "one-price" steak house in San Mateo . . . Singer Jimmy Borges, who drew raves when he last performed in San Francisco, headlines in the Garden Bar of the Miyako Hotel, located in the Japanese Cultural and Trade Center. Performing three shows nightly, Tuesday through Saturday, Borges brings a collection of favorite songs and a bagful of contemporary sounds to the lounge, where there is never a cover or minimum charge. After hearing the talented singer, enjoy a fine dinner in the Miyako's East-West room.

Deejay's Rates Live Music Raves

Expect to find live entertainment seven nights a week at Deejay's in Belmont, where two fine bands are now being marqueed. The Loading Zone, one of the "heaviest" (to use a hip expression) groups on the West Coast, is featured Friday and Saturday nights. The Sound Barrier, who are definitely rated as Reno-Lake Tahoe material, present fantastic dance sounds nightly, Wednesday through Sunday

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Yolanda's Family-Style Dinner Moderately Priced

Yolanda's Terminal Cafe, located in the Golden Gate Produce Terminal, South San Francisco, continues to serve old-fashioned Italian family-style dinners at modest prices. Each dinner consists of six courses and includes a bottle of house wine. Manager John Hutchinson adores children and, of course, offers them special prices. Dinners are served nightly from 4 p.m. except Sundays, when service begins at 3 p.m. . . . The varied sounds of the Jimmy Vann Band, currently showcased in Hugo's Bistro at Hyatt House Burlingame, includes jazz, rock and pop music, as well as hit musical and Broadway show tunes. Due to popular demand, the group is in the process of recording several records which will feature many of their own compositions . . . Gulliver the Traveler, a mystic-eyed folk singer otherwise known as Henry Spring, performs Sunday and Monday nights at The Putter, Burlingame Plaza. Gulliver captivates his audiences with folk tunes, blues, pop standards and a solid list of his own musical products.

Lehr's Steaks For Gourmets

Nate Thurmond, the Warriors basketball star, finds steaks to match his kingsize appetite at Lew Lehr's Steak House, in San Francisco's Marina district, where extra choice steaks are cut to your exact order, any size . . . Free parking is just another well-thought - out accommodation at Vince Licata's Italian and Sea Food restaurant. There are "lots" of space on either side of this luncheon and dinner mecca, which is open to serve you seven days a week . . . No business complaint at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, where hotel rooms are booked to capacity, and the Greenwillow dining room and Club Seville cocktail lounge are enjoying a steady flow of appreciative patrons. Credit owner Erwin Best with a great re-organizing job during the past months, which has paid off two-fold . . . The Royal Queens (covered with melted butter and lemon parsley) is guaranteed to delight particular diners at Atherton's Lord Fletcher Inn who have a fancy for Australian Lobster Tail. This is just one of several superb entrees on the menu of this elegant dinner house featuring an English theme throughout.

Wellington Room Popular

Cerebral Palsy of California, conventioning in San Francisco, held a Board of Directors dinner meeting in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco. Among those attending: Robert MacDonald, Ted Witchecki, and Harris Shirline . . . Photographer Emilie Romaine was seen dining with friends at Nick Gust's Papagayo Room in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Final plans were made for a photography tour to Disneyland . . . High on the Exposition Fish Grotto wine list is a special import from Israel. Labeled Carmel Hock, the vint is a dry, white wine from the vineyards of Palestine. On Fisherman's Wharf, you will find this delicious import only at the Expo . . . When Cuban-born Antonio steps into the spotlight for a song, it's one of the exciting moments in the Finocchio revue of female impersonators. Tunes from "Man of La Mancha" are among his specialties. Antonio also teams with Rene De Carlo to present Cuban and Mexican dance routines, which makes this act a must-see combination.

Country And Western Music

Elsie Adams and Curt Bartly, co-owners of The Studio, are such avid fans of Country & Western music that they decided to bring it to the Peninsula. And it's all happening in the intimate lounge of this Belmont bistro as The Branded Men, a San Jose group with a great following of fans, take over the spotlight on Friday and Saturday evenings. Don't miss their Sunday p.m. jam sessions . . . Russo's in San Bruno, which will soon be called The Distillery, has four different banquet rooms which can accommodate groups up to 200 persons. A favorite for wedding receptions is the beautiful Monte Carlo room .

Miss Horvath Wed in East Coast Rites

The Church of St. Jude the Apostle in Wynantskill, N.Y. was the setting on Saturday for the marriage of Harriet Rose Horvath and Brian Francis Mullan.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horvath of Troy, N.Y. and her bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Rosaleen Mullan of San Bruno, who traveled to the East Coast for the ceremony.

The Rev. Clement Handron conducted the nuptial Mass for the couple who received felications immediately following at Mario's Theatre Restaurant in Troy.

Harriet, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore an ivory silk organza gown with re-embroidered Alencon lace bodice and jeweled neckline. Her headpiece, a family heirloom, was fashioned with Belgium rose point lace in the style of a floor length mantilla. She carried a basket of daisies.

An Empire maize colored A-line gown trimmed with Venise lace was worn by Patricia Gilhooly of Boston, who attended the bride as maid of honor. Identical gowns of Nile green were worn by the secondary attendants who included Geraldine Wall of Oakland, Mary Johnson of Albany, N.Y., and Sally Bremer of Castleton-on-Hudson, N.Y. Baskets of daisies were carried by all of the attendants.

Best man for the benedict was Dan Dillon of Millbrae and ushers included Richard Gullotta of Mill Valley, Richard Wansewicz of Redwood City, and Lt. Jack Midgard (USN) of Mountain View.

The new Mrs. Mullan was graduated from the Academy of the Holy Names in Albany and St. Peters Hospital School of Nursing, also in Albany. When she departed on her wedding trip to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, she was wearing a Navy blue ensemble with blue and white accessories. Upon return, she and Brian will establish a residence in San Mateo.

Brian is a veteran of five years service with the U.S. Navy including a tour of duty in Vietnam. He studied at Serra High School and the University of San Francisco.

Former Localites Observe Golden Wedding Date

The San Bruno American Legion Hall was the setting for the recent golden anniversary party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Ray Heglin of Santa Rosa, formerly of San Bruno.

Hosting the dinner event was the couple's daughter, Mrs. George Nyman of Millbrae.

The Heglins were married in Chicago on February 21, 1921. While living on the Peninsula, Heglin worked at the Community United Methodist Church of Millbrae. He and his wife have one granddaughter, Joan Nyman, who belongs to Girl Scout Troop 130 of Millbrae which Mrs. Heglin has helped.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Walter Hunt of Illinois, the Herman Nelsons of Los Angeles and Gayle and Ted Larson of Santa Clara, who entertained with guitar music.

THE NEWS OF Jim Cooper's passing saddened us. Jim contributed much to the Jeff High School district during his 12 years on the Board of Trustees. There were few awards Jim didn't receive for his school work. And you could always count on him to step forward when volunteers were needed for committee work in the interest of the District. Jim Cooper has left a void in many people's lives. The person who steps into Jim's now-vacant post has somemighty big shoes to fill and a long road to walk before he (or she) catches up to his accomplishments.

LATEST FALSE FIRE ALARM craze sweeping the North County is being fanned by a few goofballs who call in to local fire departments on private phones. The other day such a phone alarm was called in to the Daly City Fire Department. While firemen raced to the phony address an arsonist was at work over at the Colma Intermediate school miles away.

Before the discovery was made and* the trucks sent to back up units fighting the school house blaze, one classroom nearly went up in smoke. We agree with battalion chief Mel Hansen that "something has got to be done about curbing false alarms."

We can think of a great many things to do AFTER they catch these bummers.

THAT WAS A NICE affair the Hillside Honeowners Improvement Association put on the other night at the Italian-American club in San Franicisco. D.C. Mayor Bud Lycett was installing officer for the new board of directors, which included former D.C. Councilman Edward Dennis, and incoming president Bud Durham. Past president Jerry Delfino was loudly applauded by the steak and wine filled crowd for his accomplishments on behalf of the association over the past two years. (Jerry's shoes will likewise be mighty hard to fill).

SPEAKING OF DINNER — That D.C. police department secretary with the loverly dress at the City Employees gathering drew gasps from the gals and inquisitive stares from the males. As one admiring gent put it: "Her dress looked like last year's stock market."

JUDGING BY THE talk at the North County Council of Cities meet in Pacifica last week, Maurice Hamilton will be (is??) the new mayor in San Bruno following that recall election. And it won't be long (no pun intended) before City Manager Kit Menkin is O-U-T. That's politics, fellas.

(Outgoing (gone??) Councilman Ted Long didn't deliver his report on the Southern Crossing at the NCCC meet. He failed to show up as did Councilman Dick Griffith.

Only Mayor Neil Christal, sole survivor of the recall, was at the dinner meeting.

THAT'S ABOUT PAR — To no one's suprise former D.C. City Manager Ed Frank won the low net award at the recent City Managers' golf tournament held at the San Jose Muni course. A fellow golfer volunteered Ed's "secret club" won him the trophy. Asked what club this might be, the duffer replied: "his Galenkamp special."

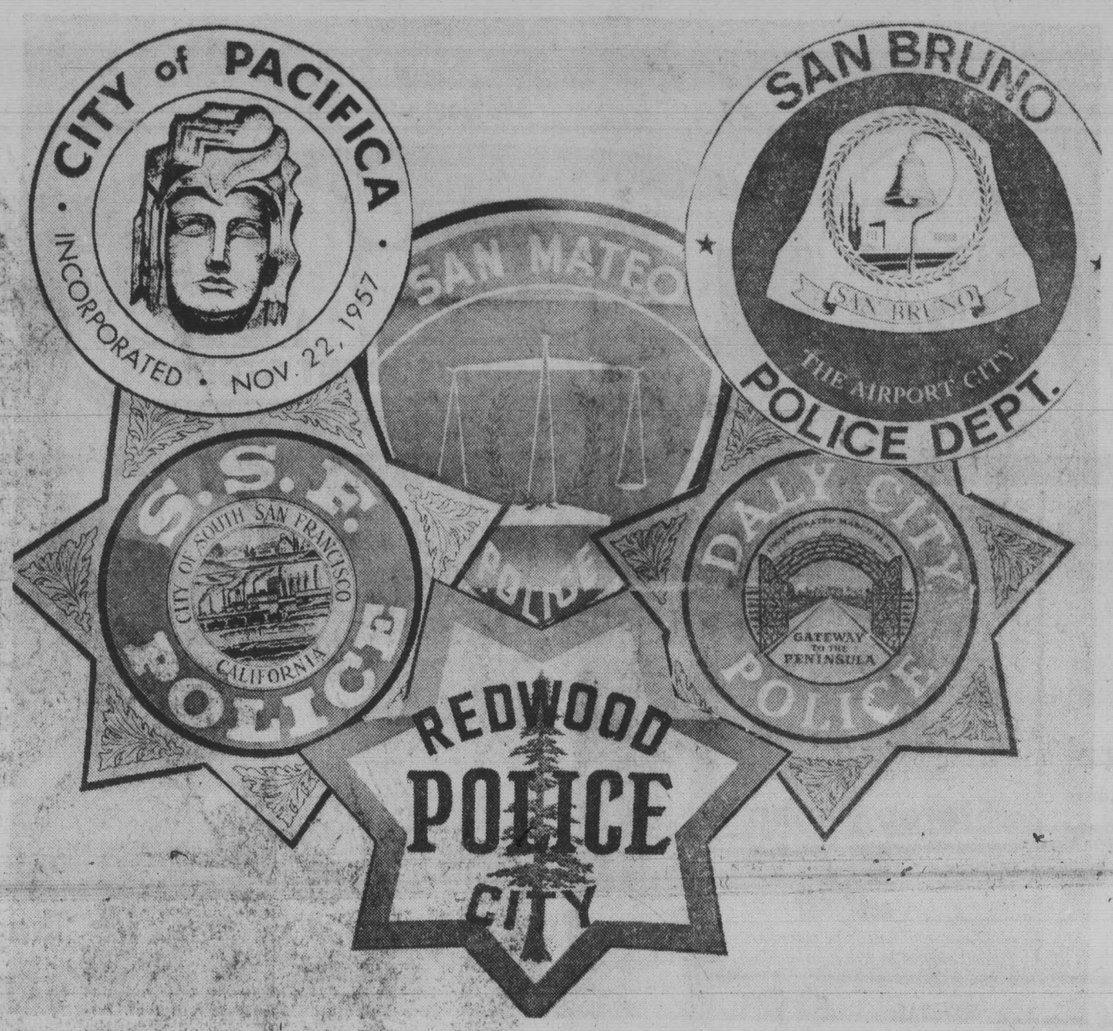
WHAT'S IN A NAME — Let's all sympathize with McRobert Stewart — Councilman Stewart of Daly City. His name is so often misspelled, misprinted and misused the poor man is on the verge of . . . well, we promised him we wouldn't tell. At any rate Stewart's name appeared as "Robert McStewart" at the NCCC meet and he was introduced as "Bob Stewart." This is apparently the latest in an obvious ambitious plan to embarrass the Daly City Council. We think, solely as a neutral observer mind you that it's time for Mayor Bud Pacelli to do something about it.

GOPHERS GOING FOR total destruction of the BART system in the East Bay. The little critters are gnawing their way into communications cables and control lines at several spots along the track. Not only is much of the public chewing out the BART people for past booboos, the animals have decided to join the "chewin."

SORRY, BUT WE CAN'T accept that new crosswalk scheme at the corner of Market and Mission streets in D.C. First: why must pedestrians be trotted across the street to an "island" and then cross over another lane of moving "right turn" traffic to the relative safety of the sidewalk? There are NO pedestrian signals guiding folks all the way across. There are no barriers on the island itself.

And, if that cramped refuge in the midst of zooming traffic holds more thn six shivering people we'll eat a low calorie piece of apple pie. Frankly, the only reasoning we've been given for this crosswalk is that the State Highway Department put it in and they're responsible for it.

If the people who live, work, walk and shop in that area believe the answer is a direct crosswalk between the east and west sides of Mission street, what's the problem? Paint it! The improvement project now underway in that area is a city-county project.



AUTONOMY is the magic word when it comes to any thoughts on consolidation. A desire for local self-government accounts for zealous development and protection of local units, as these decals represent, even if a larger more cohesive agency would be a better solution to common problems. (Post Photo)

Merger a 'Political Football'

By BOB PETERSON

PACIFICA MAYOR Nick Gust probably is the most outspoken proponent of police consolidation.

He supports not only consolidation of the police departments, but suggested the study include the "Possibility of making one or two cities in San Mateo County."

Mayor Nick Gust recently succeeded in prompting the San

Second of a series

Mateo County Council of Mayors to look into this possibility.

"It's completely a political football," said Gust. "There's not one person in political office that won't agree to the need (for at least some consolidation). But it's the old story. We don't want to get involved. We all have our own little police department and we're happy.

"We're getting to the point where we have to forget our own political views, and look to the welfare of the county," said Gust. "Boundaries don't mean anything.

"We in city government all sit and say we want to save the taxpayer money," said Gust. "But the biggest cutback is in front of us and we don't want to admit it."

The San Mateo County City Managers Association also has come out in favor of broadening the police study to include other possible combinations of city services.

"A study should be conducted generally on the possible consolidation of the county's cities into a lesser number of organizations," said Daly City City Manager David Rowe.

"There would be greater efficiency and greater coordination," said Rowe. "Most smaller areas would gain greater control over their own destiny."

Police service reamins one of the most local of government services. The smallest jurisdictions like to believe they can provide at least minimal needed police services.

Many elected officials, according to some police authorities, don't understand the complex makeup of a police function. The experts say the politicians tend to look upon the local policeman as a custodian or guard, rather than the professional he is.

Some law enforcement experts have expressed concern that small police departments can't meet professional standards because of budgetary controls by these uninformed governing bodies, who are reluctant to allocate funds.

One community police officer put it this way: "It seems that if you ask some men a question as a politican, they will answer as a politician. Ask them that same question as a citizen, they will respond as a citizen. Most politicians' thought processes run in two tracks.

A progressive thinking Police Captain in Pacifica, Ray Shipley, said "We may not save money (with consolidation), but we'll get a lot more for the money spent."

Shipley, on the Pacifica department for nearly 12 years, hopes to obtain his bachelor's degree in penology from San Jose State in July. Preparing for a class in organization and administration last April, he put together a paper on the benefits of consolidating the North County Police agencies.

"The report gave me an opportunity to study for myself how much we really rely on each other," said Shipley. "I found that each community cannot exist on its own resources."

Shipley said there's no getting away from a need for close local control, but there should be some centralization, such as with the jail system.

He suggested closed circuit television might be used to aid in county-wide police work. Shipley's idea is that every morning, during briefings, departments could tune in a channel and obtain information of all activities that occurred in the county the night before.

"Philosophy is the key to any reorganization," said Shipley. "We (in this county) are on the threshold of big things, if we follow through on them."

Anything San Mateo County does toward police consolidation at this time should be aimed in the direction of auxiliary services.

So said Ed Tootham, senior consultant in police management with the state Commission on Peace Officers Standards and Training.

"In general terms, I favor consolidation of police services," said Tootham. "I think it can be done without infringing on local autonomy."

He also said, "Politics is a very real and important aspect. There must be a compatibility and willingness to coordinate and cooperate. You must have the concurrence of the people."

Tootham, retired police chief of Oakland, reiterated however, the greatest opportunity for consolidation, "and perhaps the most acceptable," is in the field of auxiliary services.

Auxiliary services are nonline functions, separate from staff functions. They include such things as records, communications systems, detention facilities and crime laboratories.

Staff functions include recruitment, selection and training of personnel, planning and purchasing.

The most controversial area for the implementation of consolidation is field services. These are the activities such as criminal investigation, delinquency control, special task force operations, vice control and related operations. They involve direct contact with the public.

Democracy Working Reasonably Well

Democracy works reasonably well in the United States and has survived incredible challenges and foolishness. But one hears strange things about our country. Some talk of revolution and others call democracy the "tyrant". These people fail to consider the alternatives and how they would feel about a tyrant they didn't dare call a tyrant.

Nonetheless, in any serious discussion of politics and government it must be confessed that our democracy does not work as well as it should, and could stop working altogether if remedial steps aren't taken. The problem is: what steps? It seems these fall into three general classifications: (1) Institutional modifications, (2) Improved citizen participation, and (3) a radical change in our attitudes and practices that govern the use of money in politics.

Office holders and politicians engage in a constant search for ways to beat the system. Thus, for example, individual Senators don't want to wield 1-100th of the influence and power of the 100 member U.S. Senate, so they develop ad hoc practices (later dignified as quasi-institutions) that give some members a magnified voice.

The result is the dilution of rerpesentation and the preference of some members of Congress over others. Included in a list of such non democratic practices are the seniority system, some features of the committee system, the rules on filibusters, legislation by rider, unrecorded committee votes and so on and on.

For years and years we have allowed congressional preference to develop roadblocks of power and influence that deprive us of quality and equality in representation. In chess parlance, one Wilbur Mills is worth at least one hundred pawns (of the 435 member House of Representatives). The amazing thing is that the pawns fight so hard to protect the imbalance.

Since the "one man one vote" decisions, electoral equality has improved markedly. But rigidities can still be found in the practices of political parties and in our convention system. And though congressional entrenchment is most visible, the executive and even judicial departments protect old ways that make men other than equal and the application of power and law less than even.

Voters (particularly young voters whose perceptions have not been dulled by years of exposure to reality) often express rage at systemic flaws. But the flaws and practices live on. Why?

Because the citizenry gets the kind of government it deserves. An inattentive and listless populace will spawn nonresponsive government. The average American has done little to deserve quality. Too busy and too disinterested to meet even minimal standards of citizenship, America wants to take its politics with the beer ads. Candidates (particularly those down the ticket) must fight for name identification and image politics is a necessity for all candidates since voters won't spend the time to learn more than images provide. A modern day political commandment might read: "Thou shalt not support superficial images".

Images can be purchased, and elections have, as a result, become battles for dollars. As present laws governing campaign contributions are woefully inadequate. A winner can usually be identified as the candidate with the most money. The people, in turn, get the best that money can buy, and winners promptly enforce the system that made their victory possible.

We should, of course, develop effective limitations on campaign expenditures. But many good men have tried to do this for years, without success. The reason is found in the proximity of such efforts to the next big election (never more than two years away). Many oxes will be gored in that next election, and those who believe their hold on money is superior will invariably vote in favor of their own larger share of the mother's milk of politics.

The sensible way to avoid this is to pass a law today, but postpone its effective date for five or more years. With such delayed effectiveness, our chosen representatives could be more relaxed and behave more like statesmen than politicians, and reform would have a chance.

Democracy in the United States is broadly available and we, the people, are the establishment. The trouble is that we have allowed our house to fall into disrepair and could be evicted if we don't pay attention to our own affairs. New attitudes, laws and institutions are required if we are to avoid having our constitutional government destroyed by a strangling encirclement of apathy, images, money, abuse of power, apathy, images, money, abuse of power, apathy, Ima. . .

Won His Freedom

The latest issue of American Heritage carries an article, "This Nation Never Saw A Black Man Before," about a black man who quite unexpectedly became something of a hero, whose memory has remained neglected by a people who are searching the history of this country for anyone of their race who can be canonized.

"His name was York — just York," the author, Donald Zochert, writes.

"He was the man servant of William Clark" of the famous Lewis and Clark Expedition. When the journey started York was used to gather greens and berries for the white man's dinner, but as the explorers wandered deeper and deeper into the wilderness that covered most of America in 1804, York proved his metal.

As the party encountered the various tribes of Plains Indians, York had many opportunities to display his powers and strength before the astonished Indians who had never seen a black man before.

William Clark wrote of York's power. "Those people are much pleased with my black servant. . . . Their women very fond of caressing our men, etc. . . . everybody [illegible] a good time, and York by no means excluded." One of the men with Lewis and Clark reports that an old chief spit upon his fingers and tried to rub the black off of York. Another of the men reported that York's presence helped to calm otherwise warlike tribes.

IT IS PLEASANT to learn that when the expedition returned to St. Louis, Clark gave York his freedom, and York who had once been a slave became a principal on trading forays.

York became a hero and a leader some three centuries after another black man focnd lasting fame as an explorer of America. He was Estebanico who went with his master on an ill-fated expedition to Florida, then populated by fierce Indians.

All of the company were slain by the Indians except Estebanico and five men from Spain, one being Cabeza de Vaca who led the six through areas of Gulf States, Texas, New Mexico and parts of Mexico that white men did not get around to settling for another hundred years.

After the group returned to Mexico, Estebanico became the bearer of Indian tales that set the leaders of the Spanish army trooping through the Southwest. Although the tales proved to be untrue, Estebanico remains one of the first of a phalanx that proved that America could be settled and become a great nation.

MANY PEOPLE DO NOT realize how many black men were in the first groups that settled the various states of the U.S.A. Brigham Young had three former slaves with him on his first trip to the great Salt Lake. All three had belonged to Mormon converts who set them free before the group left Illinois. One of the black men left Salt Lake to demonstrate that the deserts in Idaho could be made to grow farm produce. Another became one of the first settlers of Arizona. The third came with his former master to settle in California. All three are remembered as part of the vanguard that settled the West.

The inspiring stories of black men who braved the trails to California may be found in Delilah L. Beasley's book Negro Trail Blazers. Here are the records of pioneers that all America, white men as well as black, should remember with pride.

The Chief's Corner

P.I.N. Regional Service Example

(This is the fourth in a series of articles by San Bruno police captain Bill Cann dealing with the pro's and con's of a police merger and-or consolidation of services.)

MANY RECORDS SERVICES are presently under way which are area-wide or even nationwide. However, they are mainly concerned with operational information services which contains valuable information needed on an immediate basis by field personnel.

The police information network, P.I.N., located in Alameda, is a prime example of a regional operational service. P.I.N. provides on-line computor status to all Bay Area agencies for wanted persons. Auto-status is the on-line computor file operated by the California Highway Patrol which contains storage information on stolen and wanted vehicles. This is an example of a consolidated statewide service.

FINALLY, ON A national level the national crime information center, N.C.I.C., located in Washington, D.C., and manned by the F.I.B., contains national files on stolen vehicles, wanted persons and stolen property. All three of these services make available to field personnel access to a system which, five years ago, was nonpexistent.

Administrative information services are those which provide statistical data used for manpower deployment and personnel management. It does not appear that because of the nature of this service the greatest potential return is for the individual agency. Reporting and statistical services deal with the collection of crime information for general statistical uses. It also encompasses central report recording and transcribing services.

THE CITIES OF Martinez, Concord, Pleasant Hill and Walnut Creek are in the process of centralizing all their records, operational, administrative and reporting. Although not yet operational the data which will be available and the on-line ability of each agency will no doubt provide a system which will be the pilot for California, if not the nation.

Featured soloist is pianist Dorian Ho of Daly City. The 16-year-old winner of auditions held last May will play Grieg's "Piano Concerto in A Minor, Opus 16."

Miss Ho was born in Taiwan and began her piano studies with her mother at age five. In 1964 and 1965 she was finalist of the National Music Contest and the International Rotary Music Contest in Taiwan. In 1965 she went to Japan where she studied music at the Osaka College of Music unil 1967.

The Ho family moved to the United States in 1967 and Dorian continued her piano study at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music. In 1968 she was selected to be accompanist for the San Francisco Public Schools All-City Honor Choir which climaxed its year of performance with a concert at the War Memorial Opera House. This year's program will consist of three events.

A master class from 10:30 to noon will be conducted by Penelope Lagios Johnson in the Skyline College Gymnasium; a lecture-demonstration from 1:30 to 3 will be illustrated by dancers in practice costume; and the evening's performance will take place at 8 in the Main Theater.

Tickets for all three activities are available at $4 each, and box lunches may be reserved for an additional $1.25 each. Tickets for the evening concert only can be purchased separately for $2.50.

Tickets and reservations may be obtained by writing the Community Education Office, Skyline College, 3300 College Drive, San Bruno, Calif., 94066 or calling the college.

DALY CITY resident Robert E. Wilson recently was promoted by Safe-Stores, Inc., to the position of produce warehouse manager at the Richmnd Distribution Center.

The Track's History Goes Back to 1700's

Tanforan Park Shopping Center falls back in history on the long and colorful history of what was a majorhorseracing track.

For years Tanforan was synonymous with the sport of kings in the San Francisco Bay Area. The San Bruno track was originally built by a group of San Franciscans headed by Prince Andre Ponatowski, a Polish nobleman.

However, the track's history dates back to the late 1700's when Spanish cavalrymen from the San Francisco Presidio raced their horses on the site, long before the countryside developed.

The land was an original gra from the King of Spain to Hacendado Tanfaran, one of the region's first colonial settlers, later passing it on to his son, Toribio Tanfaran.

With its 1830 opening, Tanforan (the spelling had changed through Americanization) became the redezvous for society leaders from the Bay Area until the early 1900's when the sport of horse racing was declared illegal.

The track was closed until 1923 when it was rebuilt by a group of San Francisco socialites and businessmen headed by A. B. Spreckles and Thomas Fortune Ryan.

Tanforan was the scene of a 25-day betless meeting tha year and again in 1924. In 1927 the late James Coffroth conducted an oral betting meeting, patterned after those conducted in New York. In 1930 the first option betting system was conducted at Tanforan.

When pari-mutual betting was legalized in California the track was operated by the late John W. Marchbank until World War II at which time it became an alien concentration center and later an advanced base personennl depot for the navy.

Following the war the track was reopened and operated under different ownerships until 1964 when fire destroyed the grandstands and clubhouse.

The tanforan Racing Association still operates but, since the San Bruno facilities were destroyed, the racing sason has been scheduled on an alternating basis between Bay Meadows and Golden Gate Fields.

NELL NORTON

Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

Missing our Wednesday morning chats was one of the more unpleasant aspects of being incapacitated for the past two weeks. It's nice to greet you again.

This week let's concentrate on desserts. (A favorite form of concentration for me, and for you, too, I hope.) Fortunately for us, I have two new recipes for desserts which were sent to me by a friend, Miss Jayne Frank who teaches at Vallemar School in Pacifica.

This first recipe makes a rich pudding-type cake.

FRUIT COCKTAIL CAKE

1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups (303 can) fruit cocktail, undrained
1 egg

Into a mixing bowl sift the one and one-half cups flour, 1 cup sugar and one teaspoon each soda and salt. Add the can of fruit cocktail, juice and all, and the one egg. Mix well and pour into greased and lightly floured 9x13-inch pan. Top with the following:

TOPPING

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup chopped nuts
1 Tablespoon flour

Combine the cup each brown sugar and nuts, add the tablespoon flour. Mix and sprinkle over top of cake.

Bake in 325-degree oven 55 minutes. Cool and serve topped with dollops of whipped cream.

Serves 10.

THIS RECIPE makes a cake that has many things to recommend it. It looks beautiful, tastes terrific, serves 10 to 12 and is very easy to make.

As you see, the list of ingredients calls for a 49c angel food cake. This is a small cake, about 8 to 9 inches. It's important that you use this small size because when you combine it with the other ingredients, it is poured into a tube pan and refrigerated. A larger cake would make too much for the size of the pan.

The only thing this cake lacks is a name. It tastes so heavenly, why not call it that?

HEAVENLY CAKE

2 packages cherry gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 and three-fourths cups cold water
1 49c angel food cake
½ pint whipping cream
4 bananas, sliced
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 can (No. 1 flat) crushed pineapple, drained

Mix the two packages cherry gelatin with the two cups boiling water, stir until completely dissolved. Add the one and three-fourths cups cold water and place in refrigerator to chill until thickened slightly.

Tear the angel food cake into small pieces and place in large bowl. Whip the half-pint cream.

When the gelatin is slightly thickened add the four sliced bananas, two cups marshmallows and drained crushed pineapple. Fold in the whipped cream. Pour over angel food cake pieces and blend well.

Pour into a large tube pan. Refrigerate overnight.

Run knife around edge of pan to unmold. If you wish you may frost this cake with whipped cream to which you've added a few drops of red to make a light pink color. However it's quite rich and we thought it just perfect without frosting.

Art Posters Headquarters

The nationally known firm of Celestial Art Posters has announced that it is building a 25,000 square foot office and warehouse building on Forbes Boulevard in the Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Office-Industrial Park in South San Francisco.

The building, which is a project of Aberthaw Construction Company, will replace Celestial's former office and warehouse in San Francisco, according to Harold Kramer, president. It will serve as headquarters and plant for its operations throughout the world.

The company, producers and distributors of graphic arts and supplies, as well as book publishers, has acquired 1.7 acres in the CC&F Park. Approximately 10 per cent of the building will be used for office space.

Celestial Art Posters will be the sixty-sixth company in the award-winning CC&F Park. Construction will begin within a few weeks and the building is expected to be ready for occupancy by the first of July.

Real estate broker for the transaction was Richard Hyde of Coldwell, Banker & Company in San Francisco.

TANFORAN PARK SHOPPING CENTER, 1150 EL CAMINO REAL, SAN BRUNO, CALIFORNIA

MISS TANFORAN and the new Tanforan Park Shopping Center logo were centers of attraction at recent organizational meeting of Merchants at Russo's restaurant in San Bruno. With the pretty theme girl is Frank Haggerty, Tanforan center manager.

Nielsen Manager of New Kress Store

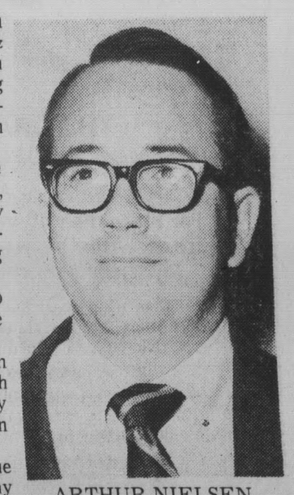
Arthur G. Nielsen has been named to manage S. H. Kress & Company's new retail store in the Tanforan Park Shopping Center. He has also been elected president of the Tanforan Park Merchants' Assciation.

Employed by thenationwide retail chain for seven years, Nielsen has most recently served as Kress Company manager at Sun Valley Shopping Center in Concord.

He and Mrs. Nielsen plan to soon make their home in the Peninsula area.

The 18,000 square-foot store in Tanforan Park becomes the 47th Kress store in California, many of which are located in the San Frncisco Bay Area.

Nielsen said he will continue to emphasize Kress Company policy established during its 75 year history: To give the customer dependable merchandise the consumer knows and trusts. Traditionally the firm offers famous and nationally advertised brands or its own laboratory-tested and approved merchandise.



ARTHUR NIELSEN

To enhance customer convenience and comfort the Tanofran Kress store has included an attractive Spanish Oak resaurant — a sidewalk cafe-type facility off the central mall.

TANFORAN Park Shopping Center, under the guidance of key Hapsmith Company personnel, will hold preview opening activities at the 48-acre El Camino Real and Sneath Lane site in San Bruno. Among the Hapsmith leaders: Rep. Smith, owner-developer (left), and Tanforan Manager Frank Haggerty.

GRANAT BROS. jewelers will open at San Bruno in this modern store in the Tanforan Shopping Center tomorrow. An especially created, gold, diamond-studded key — valued at $5000 — will be used for the Granat grand opening.

Tanforan's Historical Significance

Historical significance of Tanforan Park is rich in the annals of California.

When the state was comprised of small Spanish communities, a gem in America's western frontier sparkled brightly for sportsmen — Tanforan Race Track.

Once the queen of thoroughbred horse racing in California, Tanforan was originally constructed in 1890 by San Francisco sportsmen seeking a regal aura for "the sport of kings."

Now the site of the giant Tanforan Park Shopping Center, Tanforan was the on-location filming site of most of the early horse race movies produced in Hollywood. America's Sweetheart, Mary Pickford, was on hand opening day when the "new" Tanforan Race Track opened in 1923. During its heyday the greats of the west centered many of their social activities around a visit to Tanforan.

The racing facility was named after Torribo Tanfaran on land owned by the Sanchex Family's "Buri-Buri-Rancho." The Americans' pronounciation of Tanfaran soon changed the spelling to Tanforan.

In 1910 Lou is Paulham became the 12th man to fly an airplane and the first on the Pacific Coast when he took off from the race track infield. The flight lasted eight minutes and Paulhan reached an altitude of 700 feet.

In January, 1911, another historic air flight originated from Tanforan. Eugene Ely flew his Curtis Bi-Plane from the race track to the deck of the U.S. Pennsylvania anchored at the Golden Gate. This was the first recorded landing of a fixed wing airplane on a ship.

World War I marked another change for Tanforan, the artillery regiment of the California Grizzlies took the park over for a training center.

A law against gambling on horse races finally closed the old track, but, in the 1930's a new pari-mutual system of betting became law and Tanforan was again off and running.

World War II saw a new scene at Tanforan, one which many Americans will not forget. The track became an evacuation center for Japanese in the San Francisco Bay Area. The post prosperity reopened the track and it flourished as never before.

On July 1, 1964, the grandstands and clubhouse were destroyed by a fire that could be seen from all over the Bay Area.

AMERICA'S "Sweetheart" Mary Pickford was on hand when the historic Tanforan Tace Track opened in 1923, accompanied by Sen. James Phelam. Grandstands and clubhouse at the popular track were destroyed by fire in 1964. At right, a replica of new shopping center embem.

Tanforan Opening for Granat Bros.

A fortune in fine diamonds, jewelry and silver will be settled on Tanforan Park Shopping Center tomorrow as Granat Bros. opens its newest retail outlet.

Located on the upper level main mall, Granat Bros. occupies one of the choice locations, facing the central elescator adjacent to a major Tanforan parking entrance.

This is the firm's twelfth store and it offers 2,000 square feet of sales area planned for ultimate shopping convenience.

The exterior is predominately glass and polished travertine marble, employing newest design concepts for effectiveness.

At each side of the 15-foot glass entrance to Granat Bros., shadow box show windows are set between upper and lower walnut panels, to create dramatic contrast for glittering jewelry displays. A right angle row of these shadow boxes lead to four wall-to-ceiling see-through windows that permit pedestrians a dazzling view of the interior.

"We plan for top selections coupled with ultimate in customer service," states Sanford Wolfson.

"It's really inspiring to be part of this imaginative, forward-looking shopping center and we expect great things of Tanforan."

Warrior Spikes Beat S.M.

San Mateo High School, once the Peninsula's perennial power in matters track, continued to pay the penalty for lack of depth Friday.

The Bearcats suffered their second loss in the same number of dual meets when they bowed to South San Francisco, 84-52 in a cold and windy tuneup for next week's Mid Peninsula League Relays. The victory gave South S.F. at 2-0 dual meet mark.

Both teams came up with triple winners during the competition. For the Warriors, Tony Sotoa won both hurdles with respective marks of 16.4 and 22.2 and took the long jump with a 20-1½ leap.

San Mateo sophomore Ryan Paton confined his efforts to the field events, where he won the triple dump (41-1½), the high jump (5-6) and pole vaulted 12-6. Another good mark for he Bearcats was turned in by Andy Nevitt, who won the 880 in 2:02.8.

LE PACINI

Sportscripts

Bud Bresnahan, Terra Nova High's baseball coach, was displaying a Willie McCovey Model Louisville Slugger and shaking his head. "Look at this," said the young coach, showing absolutely no respect for the fabled Bat of Champions. He was pointing to the slivered flaking barrel. "Paid nearly four bucks for it, it lasted six days."

There was a time when $1.50 could buy you a prime piece of Louisville wood, a legend, and a bundle of hits, if you had faith.

When you were 12 years old in my pre-Little League era, and playing literally on sand lots, a golden stick like a genuine Louisville Slugger was just about the most precious tool a young baseball player could possess, especially when you were labeled an "all-field, no-hit," as I was.

Mostly you were stuck with whatever you could pick up, which was usually "off brand" bats without a lot of wood in them, or the broken bats — not always Louisville Sluggers — you could scrounge from the local semi-pro teams if you happened to be around when they were discarding them.

Once, one of the kids in the neighborhood got a real professional model he had begged after a San Francisco Seal game from the groundskeeper. It was whacked almost in two and it must have taken a dozen nails and half a role of black tape to make it serviceable, but that kid was the hero of the block and captain of the team until the bat was finally sheared in two a few weeks later.

Meanwhile, I had re-discovered a real blunderbuss, literally a club, which had been leaning in a dark corner of our basement seemingly for years. Maybe it had been my father's. It had, apparently, originally been brown, but hundreds of resined hands and dusty fields had turned it almost black, obliterating its brand name (if it ever had one — it might have been turned on a company lathe, when the boss wasn't looking), the dirt possibly holding it together. It had to have weighed 40 ounces, and must have been 38 inches long. I could hardly lift it, but it was now, suddenly, MY bat, and it wasn't broken.

I BEGAN LUGGING it to Portola Playground at about the time the men who took batting practice all day Saturdays in preparation for their Sunday semi-pro games, bestowed upon me the honor of allowing me to chase their flies and run-down their lost balls. It was an honor few kids in the neighborhood were accorded. That was because few kids in the neighborhood were willing to chase baseballs from 10 in the morning until 3-4 in the afternoon, with perhaps a half hour for lunch, for the privilege of maybe if you were lucky, having one of the big guys let you take five or six swings at the end of the day, when it was cold and the wind and dust were whipping in from right field, and nobody else wanted to bat, anyway.

That was when I would get my chance to drag my black blunderbuss, its handle so thick I could barely wrap my fingers around it, up to the plate and take my left-handed swings. I would be dead tired, and I more lifted than swung the bat, and the wind would be spattering dust into my eyes and pushing against what swing I could muster, but it was a thrill, to be hitting with the big guys (who would by now all be stationed on the bench slipping on street shoes, with maybe one good guy staying behind the "pitcher" to shag my off-field ground balls.)

Later, when I began playing high school and semi-pro ball, I was always an off-field hitter, and I'll always believe that the reason for that was swinging on those late afternoons at Portola with the wind whipping in from right field and using that bat I could hardly get off my shoulder.

Even when I did manage to pull a ball, if it got in the air the wind would bring it back to the infield. So I just accepted the fates and became an off-field hitter. I got so I could hit them on the fists over the third baseman's head. I don't think Portola Playground ever produced a left handed pull hitter.

But I digress. One Saturday, Lefty, an old guy (he must have been at least 37-38) who, like myself, was a left-handed hitter who seldom tried to pull the ball, spotted my bat tucked underneath the bench, picked it up, hefted it, and much to my honor, dragged it to the plate with him. He began cracking searing line drives to all fields. Even when he hit them on the fists they went. I heard him exclaim, as he later was shagging flies, "Boy, what a mace. That thing is so aged, and the handle's so thick, even when you don't hit it solid, it goes. I wonder who it belongs to." I was too awed to reply, but when, late that day, I finally got my licks and picked up my bat, he knew. Lefty watched me swing

Crestmoor Wins From Woodside

Against track rivals from the south, Crestmoor High School is a convincisg substitute for General Sherman.

For the second time in four days, the Falcons Thursday knocked otf a South Peninsula Athletic League foe in an 82-54 dual meet triumph over the Woodside Wildcats.

Crestmoor got superb performances from its veterans and some interesting effort from new personnel en route to its second triumph without defeat.

Leading the way was Chuck Bommarito, the big sprinter who anchored the Falcons' winning 440 relay team, took both short races with respective marks of 10.0 and 22.8, and ended his 16¼-point day with a winning discus toss of 138 feet.

Gary Hicklin ran a leg on each of the Falcon relay teams and set a new meet record with a 2:02.4 win in the 880. Steve Trueman also came through with a triple by winning the pole vault at 12-6, leaping 21-1 in the long jump first and leading off the mile relay.

Falcon coach Ron Etherton was also pleased by the 4:48.3 mile victory turned in by freshman Bill Hastings and by Toby Garza, who clocked 52-flat to finish second in the 440.

Woodside got a fine hurdles double from Rich Jones, who broke his own meet record with a 15.7 in the highs and complemented it with a 20.7 in the lows. The Wildcats' Dave Legg clocked 51.9 to win the quarter while Pete Marks got another meet record with a 10:10.8 triumph in the two-mile.

Westmoor High School opened its track season Friday afternoon with a decisive 91-45 victory over the visiting Aragon Dons.

Seniors Jeff Orlich and Bob McLennan paced the Rams with two firsts apiece. McLennan took the long jump at 19-4 and the triple jump at 37-3.

Orlich turned in a 24.4 220, won the 100 with a 10.1 clocking, and was third man on Westmoor's victorious 440 relay team (45.8).

Macalusos Stop Falcon Batters

There were just a little too many Macalusos for the Crestmoor High School baseball team to handle Friday.

Coach Terry Christman's Falcons were blanked by Lincoln of San Francisco, 3-0, at West Sunset Park as the Macaluso twins provided the difference on both sides.

While Pete Macaluso was providing the impetus at the plate with a two-run double, twin brother Paul was blanking the Falcons on just three hits from the mound. Crestmoor's only threat came in the second inning when they hit back-to-back singles Their record is now 0-2.

Westmoor Nine Nips Capuchino

Power, defense and good starting pitching all combined Friday as the Westmoor High School baseball team evened its practice record at 1-1 at the expense of the Capuchino Mustangs, also 1-1.

Starter Dan Cvitanich picked up the 3-1 victory with a five-inning stint of five-hit, eight-strikeout ball. Westmoor got a two-run homer from Steve Murray in the third while Cap got a solo job from Dennis Haag in the fourth inning.

The Rams got the winning run across in the fourth when Cvitanich and Ted Grey put back-to-back singles in front of John Albee's sacrifice fly.

Cap rallied in the seventh and had the bags loaded with two outs when catcher Frank Dove hit a line shot to centerfield to end the game. Westmoor catcher Rich Cardera had three put-outs at home on three collision plays.

Warriors Top Bearcats, 7-0

San Mateo High School is hoping that it doesn't end the season the same way it opened it Wednesday.

The Bearcats were soundly thumped, 7-0, by South San Francisco High in a practice game at Orange Park. Warrior pitcher Pete Enea mastered the Bearcat batters by setting them down on two hits while only walking four.

Brad Dahl of South City hit his second homer in as many games when he powered a solo shot over the cones in the first inning. Bob Brian's Warriors are now 2-0 and travel to Menlo-Atherton for a 3:15 p.m. game tomorrow.

Youth Baseball Tryouts

Youth baseball draft tryouts will be held March 13 and March 20 for South San Francisco boys 11 to 15 years of age who hope to play in Midget, 13 and Under or Pony League teams.

The baseball program is sponsored by the South San Francisco Youth Baseball Managers Association, Inc. and the South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department.

It will play league games from late May through early August.

This will be the first year that a new system will be in effect. A draft of all boys participating in the first day tryouts will be conducted by all of this years 22 teams.

Boys 12 and 13 years who are eligible to participate in the 13 and Under League will meet Saturday at Orange Memorial Park softball diamond for sign-ups and tryouts.

Sign-ups for the tryouts are required and this will be held from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. on the field. Tryouts will actually be held from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Eleven-year-old boys are eligible for the Midget League, which will conduct tryouts March 20 on the Orange Memorial Park softball diamond.

Fourteen and 15-year-old boys may play in the Pony League and these tryouts will be held on the baseball field at Orange Memorial Park, March 20.

Sign-ups for the Midget League will be from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. on the softball field and 9:30 to 10 a.m. on the baseball field for Pony League boys.

Midget League boys will have tryouts at the same time as the 13 and Under League, 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Pony League boys can expect to try out from 10 a.m. to approximately 1 p.m.

All players ages are determined as of March 1, 1971. Boys who have not reached their twelfth, fourteenth or sixteenth birthdays may participate in the Midget, 13 and Under and Pony Leagues respectively.

Prospective players must furnish their own gloves and shoes. Bats, balls, and other equipment will be furnished by the teams.

(what a thrill), and when I was finished with my swings, he approached me.

"Hey, Lefty," he said. "Isn't that bat you've got there a little too heavy for you?"

"NO," I SAID, not because I wasn't being realistic, but because it was the only bat I had, and better too heavy than none at all.

"Look," he said, "I really like that bat. And a kid like you should be swinging something much lighter. I've got a bat at home I've only used a time or two in games that's about a 33-33, more your style. How about you and me negotiating a trade?"

I was reluctant, because in my neighborhood not only did nobody ever give you something for nothing, but they would never trade even-up voluntarily. But he lived only a few blocks away and I condescended to walk to his house with him and look at this bat, anyway.

When we got there he left me waiting outside his garage door, and when he opened it a few minutes later, there he was, holding out to me a practically brand new, genuine Louisville Slugger! That foolish old man was going to trade me even-up for my blunderbuss! I started taking practice swings with it right there in the street, and I suddenly felt like a hitter.

And then I noticed the autograph on the bat. It was a Ted Williams model! My next set of swings felt even more impressive. I threw Lefty the old blunderbuss and raced home, so as to get in as many practice swings as I could before dinner.

But that bat was used only for practice swings for several weeks. There was no way I was going to bring it out to our choose-up games, and I wasn't going to let any of those big guys pick it up and break it during a Saturday batting practice.

In those days, about the only way a kid my age could really play organized ball was during the summer city recreation department leagues. You didn't have uniforms, but you were in a league and you could win championships and get your names in box scores in the local dailies on Mondays. That summer was the first one I qualified (you had to be 12), and I made the team as a centerfielder for Portola Playground's entry, the Portola Juniors in the Muny League. Chasing those flies for the big guys every Saturday had me a proficient outfielder, but I was still known as a non-hitter.

But I knew my reputation wouldn't last for long, because it was for that first game of organized baseball that I ever played that I had been saving my Louisville Slugger.

The city's only lady manager (Mrs. Jeannette Gaggero) made me leadoff batter, possibly because in those days all center fielders batted lead-off, and also to get me out of the way as quickly as possible. I will always remember that first pitch in my first organized game of baseball on that bright, sunny, windless morning at Portola. The pitcher threw me a fast ball (did kids in those days have any other pitch?) right down the pipe. The magical Louisville Slugger swung and ripped a vicious line drive past the second baseman, to his left, in the hole. I had gotten a hit, had actually PULLED the ball!

WE WON, THAT DAY. The Louisville Slugger went six for six, all of them line drives, one over the center fielder's head for a homer, not to mention an assortment of doubles and triples. From that day on, in that league, at least, I batted third and fourth, and hit .580, and it was all because of that Louisville Slugger.

I never had another six hit day in a "career" which lasted, in stops and starts, until age 22. But that hunk of perfect white ash, which, to the best of my knowledge still lies, aging, in my parents' basement, a slight crack in it, did the magical thing of turning me into a sandlot hitter of some repute.

As for Lefty, well, that was one of the rare baseball trades which help both sides. He used the bat in good health for several years thereafter, and for all I know, his son used it and it's probably at this moment in a basement somewhere waiting for Lefty's grandson.

The label was obliterated on the big club, but it must have been a Louisville Slugger.

HMB Team Defeats D.C. Squad

Curley & Red's from Half Moon Bay defeated the Sportsmen team from Daly City, 57-50, to capture the Peninsula "C" Division S.A.N.C.R.A. Adult Basketball Tournament recently conducted in Daly City.

Bob Gaines poured 19 points through the hoop to lead the C & R attack, while teammates Chuck Short and Larry Gunning gave a strong assist scoring 11 and 10 points respectively.

S.L. Mixon tallied 15 points and Willie Thomas added 14 big ones to lead the Sportsmen assault in the aggressively played game.

In preliminary action, Curley & Red's defeated the Proteges, another Daly City entry, 58 to 46 while the Sportsmen knocked off Kaiser Permanente from Redwood City 45-26.

Curley and Red's will now represent the Peninsula in the Northern California S.A.N.C.R.A (Sports Association of Northern California Recreation Agencies) Championships to be played in Redwood City on March 19 and 20.

Ram Soccermen Win Third Championship

The Westmoor Ram varsity soccer team crushed round robin leader, the Jefferson Indians, 3-1, to win its third NPL soccer championship in the four year existence of the NPL soccer league.

The Ram victory made up for the disappointment of last year's season, when the Rams were forced to forfeit all 12 of their league encounters because of ineligible players.

The final game of the NPL season was played on the USF field and the Ram booters were clearly the dominating force. Notwithstanding a sloppily played first quarter, where the Indians seemingly penetrated the Ram defense with ease, the Rams controlled the championship game.

The Rams hit paydirt in the second quarter of play when halfback Louie Gonzales headed in a close range shot. Jim Karidis, who has played stand-out ball for the Rams in recent games, set up Gonzales' goal as he sailed a direct kick deftly over the Indian defense to the waiting Ram scorer.

With a mere one goal lead, the Rams realized the need for some insurance and they got it in the third quarter from the foot of Sam Escobar with an assist from Peter Leng. Leng drew the Indian defense toward him and then made a "picture perfect" pass to Escobar who slammed it through the Indian net. For nearly the entire period the Rams continually bombarded the Jefferson goal, missing by an eyelash; two or possibly three golden scoring opportunities.

With victory clearly in sight, Miguel Paz, a Ram standout as a sophomore, put the game out of reach as he slammed in the third Westmoor goal. Once again right wing Pete Leng was credited with the assist.

Jeff got its only goal late in the fourth quarter. It was awarded a penalty kick which sailed through the outstretched arms of Ram goalie Pete Fenyes.

The Ram defense played one of their most superlative games as fullbacks Steve Peters and Mike Tracy, and halfbacks Hugo Olazar, Louie Gonzalez, and Jeff Kaus completely stifled the potent Jefferson attack.

Named Top NPL Cager

Westmoor guard Brad Quanstrom was selected the league's Most Valuable Player and his Ram teammates numerically dominated the rest of the list as coaches selected the 1971 All-North Peninsula League Basketball Team.

Quanstrom, whom many regard as one of the finest guards to ever come out of the Peninsula, was joined by backcourt teammate Dave Riley on the six-man first team. Westmoor placed four starters on the star squad. The 6-1 sharpshooter shared league scoring honors with Jefferson's junior center, Ken Smith, also a first-team selection.

The other three top spots went to South San Fancisco forward Mike Young, Oceana's junior center Terry Johnson and Terra Nova's senior forware, Jeff Wellemeyer.

Westmoor forwards Jeff Orlich and Gary Stoller were awarded second-team honors along with SSF guard Lene Mackey, Oceana guard Tom Harper and Jeff forward Herbo Eastman.

Bulldogs Seek Fourth Triumph

The College of San Mateo golf team goes in search of its fourth Golden Gate Conference victory in five outings Thursday when it engages Foothill on the Los Altos Country Club fairways.

Coach Ray Balsley's swingers achieved its third triumph yesterday when they downed Merritt College, 41-13, on the Lake Chabot fairways despite a one-under-par 71 by Merritt's Stanford Iwamoto.

Warriors Top Relays at Jefferson

The South San Francisco Warriors have taken their initial step towards regaining North Peninsula League swim superiority.

The Warrior natators, who yielded to Terra Nova last year after several seasons of domination, are apparently on their way back as they won the NPL relays in the Jefferson pool on Friday.

Coach Cliff Sansot's lads took five firsts for 60 points, while the favored Tigers had to be content with second place and 48 points. El Camino was third with 25 points, while Jefferson was fourth and Oceana fifth.

Bob Bowen, Craig Patton and John Halsworth were outstanding for South City as each participated on three winning relay teams. In the 200-yard medley relay, Bowen came from seven yards behind to barely out-touch Terra Nova, while Halworth applied similar tactics in outfinishing the Tigers by a scant tenth of a second in the 200-yard backstroke relay.

The NPL season opens up Thursday and South San Francisco starts off by meeting — Terra Nova.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS ABOUT THE ARTIFICIAL KIDNEY PROGRAM

Q. What is the Mills' Artificial Kidney Unit?

A. The only place in San Mateo County where you can receive ongoing help if you have kidney failure.

Q. Who is helped?

A. Anyone may be a candidate for the artificial kidney program— medical criteria is the primary determinant of who is acceptable for the program.

Q. What kind of help does a person get?

A. The patient receives treatments which clean the blood. These treatments last six to eight hours and have to be taken three times a week to keep a person alive. Each hospital treatment costs about $200.

Q. Isn't this awfully expensive?

A. Yes, it is. Equipment is expensive and keeping a trained staff of nurses and technicians is also costly. It costs $12,000 to train one patient for two months in the hospital and send him home with the necessary equipment. Thereafter, it costs the patient from $3,000 to $5,000 yearly.
A fund for "patient aid" is supported by gifts from community residents.

Q. Does a person ever get well completely?

A. Some persons take treatments until they can obtain a kidney transplant. Others learn how to give treatments to themselves at home with their wife or husband. Many persons are able to keep working at their jobs.

Auction No Better Than Auctioneer

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor of BBB Barometer

An auction is an old, established and legitimate American way of doing business. Many find the element of suspense involved in waiting for the final price to be an exciting as well as a lucrative way of doing business.

An auction is no better than the auctioneer who conducts it and it can be the source of misrepresented merchandise. A good auctioneer is a showman as well as a salesman and often people who just "drop in" to watch find themselves carried away by the exhilarating battle of wits between competing buyers and fall victim to "auction fever." They buy on the spur of the moment and pay more than the article was worth or go home with defective merchandise represented to be new or in good working condition.

All types of merchandise can be purchased through this method of retailing. With business becoming more competitive and large assignments of distress merchandise available, lovers of auctions can look forward to finding some real bargains.

Reports from other Better Business Bureaus throughout the country warn that there are a number of unscrupulous operations in the auction business. These people offer everything — office machinery ... automobiles ... carpets. An auction of jewelry will always attract the curious. Antique sales can be a boon to the dealers but often are sad news to the amateur buyer.

These operators cannot always be identified by their merchandise, but if you can recognize the certain perennial gimmicks they use, you may be able to save yourself time, money and heartbreak.

To protect yourself from being victimized, keep the following in mind:

1. Never go to an auction which has not placed the goods to be sold on display for at least one day prior to the auction. ALL merchandise should be displayed in such a manner that its condition is apparent.

2. Inspect the merchandise as thoroughly as possible before the auction starts. Don't fall victim to "auction fever" and bid on anything on the spur of the moment. In cases involving expensive articles, especially jewelry, try to get an appraisal prior to the auction. You are asking for trouble when you bid on sealed goods.

3. Compare the goods with advertised claims.

4. Check with your Better Business Bureau concerning the reputation of the auctioneer and the agency offering the goods.

5. Make sure that what you bought is the same article you bid on when you pick it up after the auction. Do not allow the auctioneer to remove any tags, labels or paper after the sale.

6. Be wary of dealing with itinerants. Check to see whether or not the auctioneer is licensed and an auction permit has been issued by the city.

Gun Arrest in Brisbane

A 35-year-old Brisbane man was arrested Monday and charged with conspiracy in receiving stolen property.

William Preston, of 56 San Benito Road, was booked into Redwood City shortly before midnight.

According to Brisbane police, they were advised by South San Francisco of a suspect possibly in possession of stolen property. Brisbane officers were asked to meet South San Francisco police at the San Benito Road address.

At the address, according to police, Preston was arrested and voluntarily gave up a shotgun.

South San Francisco police said they were continuing the investigation which may lead to further arrests. The FBI took part in the arrest because of the nature of the stolen property, police said.

S.F. Airport Traffic Is Easier Today

Drivers entering and leaving the San Francisco International Airport passenger terminal area today found their way a bit easier.

Elbow-shaped detours in the entry and exit roads have been eliminated.

Deputy Director of Operations George Hansen explained that the inconvenient detours had been necessary while the center portion of an underpass roadway was being built. Now that the mid-portion of the tunnel is complete the roads can be routed over their permanent sites and both ends of the tunnel finished.

"This will force the closing of the roadway alongside the Bank of America building and the road to Parking Lot 2," Hansen said.

Meanwhile, work is continuing on an upper roadway ramp to the South Terminal, which will be completed by the end of the summer and foundations are being finished for the aerial roadways around the North Terminal building which is yet to be built.

Public parking will be shifted to Parking Lot B-1, just easterly of the Standard station on the north side of the entrance roadway. Entrance to the lot is at the rear of the service station.

Flood Plan Support Is Denied

South San Francisco officials failed Friday to receive an official endorsement from the County Board of Supervisors of a federal flood control project on Colma Creek.

With many owners whose properties would be wiped out by the project in attendance, Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald ordered that no action be taken and that a full public hearing be scheduled.

The meeting in Redwood City was called to brief the county's state legislators on the $17.2 million project and to ask their help in securing state financing of half of the cost.

At the outset Mayor Patrick Ahern asked for the board's endorsement so that work can get started on obtaining federal and state financing. Supervisor Robert St. Clair raised many questions about the proposal, however, and indicated he favored instead a locally financed project on a smaller scale.

Col. Charles Roberts of the Army Corps of Engineers told the supervisors that it is already too late to get the project on the 1972 federal omnibus bill. He said there is a possibility, however, that because the federal cost would be under a $10 million ceiling, the chief engineer of the Corps could authorize the project in 1973.

Fitzgerald acknowledged that the supervisors "put ourselves in a very untenable position" by agreeing to endorse any project decided upon by South San Francisco.

New Courses at Terra Nova High

Two new courses, Musical Analysis, and Advanced Placement Physics, were offered to Terra Nova by the District for the Spring of 1971.

The Advanced Placement Physics course is based on the belief that many students, while in secondary school, may complete college-level courses.

The second course, Musical Analysis, which was also offered for the spring, will be a one semester course. All 4 grades of high school may sign up for this course.

Music fundamentals will be a basis of the course content.

This course will help students become familiar with music notation and various styles and forms of music.

Methods of instruction will be left to the teacher so the teacher may raise the interest and ability of the students.

A student will be evaluated based on his skills as a musician, and his understanding of the disiplines and scope of music.

Nevins on JFK University List

William B. Nevins, 302 Northgate Avenue, Daly City, was named to the Fall Quarter Dean's Honor List at John F. Kennedy University, according to information released this week by Dr. Herman H. Chrisman, JFKU Academic Vice President.

To achieve this honor, at the Martinez School, a graduate student must have achieved at least a 3.5 out of a possible 4.0 grade average for the quarter, Chrisman said. Only 27 graduate students were so honored.
